RANCHO SANTA FE, CA ... First Community Bancorp (Nasdaq: FCBP) today announced the signing of a definitive agreement and plan of merger to acquire Community Bancorp Inc. (Nasdaq: CMBC) for approximately $277 million in consideration consisting of First Community common stock and cash for outstanding Community Bancorp stock options. Community Bancorp, which is headquartered in Escondido, California, is the parent of Community National Bank and had $888.4 million in assets and twelve branches across San Diego and Riverside Counties at March 31, 2006. Upon completion of the acquisition, Community National Bank will be merged into First National Bank, a San Diego-based wholly-owned subsidiary of First Community.

First Community also announced that Mike Perdue, President and CEO of Community Bancorp, will become President and CEO of First National Bank upon completion of the acquisition and will join First National Bank's board of directors. Robert Borgman, President and CEO of First National Bank, will become Chairman of First National Bank.

Gary W. Deems, Chairman of Community Bancorp, and Mark N. Baker, director of Community Bancorp, will join First Community's board of directors following completion of the acquisition.

Pursuant to the terms of the definitive agreement, Community Bancorp shareholders will receive First Community common stock for their shares of Community Bancorp common stock in a tax-free transaction, and Community Bancorp option holders will receive cash, net of applicable taxes withheld, for the value of their unexercised stock options. The definitive agreement provides for a fixed exchange ratio of 0.735 of a share of First Community common stock for each Community Bancorp share, subject to adjustment as described in the definitive agreement.

The transaction is subject to customary conditions, including the approval of bank regulatory authorities and Community Bancorp's stockholders and, if necessary, First Community's shareholders. First Community shareholders will be asked to approve an amendment to First Community's bylaws to increase the size of the board of directors to accommodate the appointment to First Community's board of the two directors from Community Bancorp. The transaction is currently expected to close in the fourth quarter of 2006.

Matt Wagner, President and Chief Executive Officer of First Community, commented, "We are very pleased to have reached this agreement with Community Bancorp. Community Bancorp has built a tremendous franchise in San Diego and Riverside Counties, and their culture is very similar to ours. We are thrilled that Mike Perdue and other Community executives will be joining our team. The combination of these two institutions will create an impressive franchise in an important and thriving part of California, and serve as an important hub for First Community."

Community Bancorp's President and Chief Executive Officer Mike Perdue, stated "As a result of this transaction, two premier organizations will come together to create the leading, independent commercial bank headquartered in San Diego with 26 branches and over $2 billion in assets. The combined bank will continue to offer the same dedication and high quality customer service both institutions are known for, while offering customers an even greater array of products and higher lending limits."

Community Bancorp's Chairman Gary Deems stated, "Community Bancorp is particularly proud of what it has built since its early days as its predecessor Fallbrook National Bank. We believe this transaction will benefit our customers, employees and shareholders, and provide the best opportunity for future shareholder value."

Robert Borgman, President and Chief Executive Officer of First National Bank added, "This combination will solidify First National's position as the lender and depository bank of choice for the San Diego and Riverside County business communities. First National Bank and Community National Bank both have a reputation for finding solutions for customer needs, whether basic or sophisticated. We look forward to introducing current and future customers to the enhanced services we will be able to offer."

On May 10, 2006, First Community announced that it had completed its previously announced acquisition of Foothill Independent Bancorp, which added approximately $750 million in assets and 12 branches across Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino Counties. Upon completion of the acquisition, Foothill's wholly-owned subsidiary, Foothill Independent Bank, was merged into Pacific Western National Bank, a Santa Monica-based wholly-owned subsidiary of First Community. In connection therewith, Pacific Western sold Foothill's Temecula office to First National.

As of March 31, 2006, on a pro forma consolidated basis with Community Bancorp and Foothill Independent Bancorp, First Community would have had approximately $5.3 billion in assets with 71 branches throughout Southern California, and 1 branch in Northern California. First National Bank would have had on a pro forma basis approximately $2.0 billion in assets and 26 branches.
