Item 5. Other Events

Laidlaw Global Corporation ("the Corporation") announces that it has reached an agreement in principle with Pullman Bank and Trust ("Pullman") to resolve a money judgment obtained by Pullman in connection with guarantees issued on equipment leases of former subsidiaries of the Corporation. The judgment amount of $ 179,950.70 which includes interest to the date of judgment has been settled in principle for the future payments totaling $10,000 and the future issuance of non-voting preferred stock with a conversion feature to be effective only upon a future shareholder agreement increasing the amount of authorized shares of the Corporation.

In view of that settlement, management is now seeking a merger transaction to utilize the benefit of the consolidated net operating loss of the Corporation of approximately $29,000,000 as detailed in its various public filings.

As a separate event, the Phoenix Securities subsidiary has discontinued its office providing agreement with brokers registered with Gunn Allen and will limit its activities to consulting work and the issuance of fairness opinions similar to its prior completed transaction.

The extremely low level of cash and the absence of recent transactions continue to raise substantial concerns as to the viability of Laidlaw Global Corporation to continue as an operating company if it fails to successfully find a merger partner or a refinancing.

SIGNATURES
