(iii) that 100% of our existing 7.00% convertible subordinated notes were exchanged for our new 7.00% convertible subordinated notes and that we paid an exchange fee of $3.75 per $1,000 of principal amount of the notes being exchanged as initially contemplated in the Exchange (such exchange fee was subsequently increased to $5.00 per $1,000 of principal amount of such notes, which would result in a further reduction of cash and cash equivalents, including short-term investments, by approximately $219,000 assuming 100% of our existing 7.00% convertible subordinated notes were tendered in the Exchange)
