Revenues

Total revenues decreased by 4.1% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This decrease was the result of a 7.9% decline revenues from local services, a decline of 13.4% in long-distance revenues and a decline of 12.4% in interconnection revenues, partially offset by an increase of 24.8% in Internet access revenues and an increase of 13.0% in corporate networks revenues. The percentage of our revenues attributable to voice services (including local, long-distance and interconnection services) declined to 70.4% in the first nine months of

Edgar Filing: TELEFONOS DE MEXICO S A B DE C V - Form 6-K

2009 from 75.3% in the same period in 2008. Revenues from Internet access services and corporate networks grew to 24.6% of our revenues for the first nine months of 2009 compared to 19.8% of our revenues in the same period in 2008.

Local Service Revenues

Local service revenues decreased by 7.9% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008, primarily due to lower average revenue per local billed call and, due to competition from both wireless and other fixed-line providers, a 7.7% reduction in local traffic volume and a decline of 1.8% in the number of lines in service.

Domestic Long-distance Revenues

Domestic long-distance revenues decreased by 10.9% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008 primarily due to lower average revenue per minute. This reflects an increase in our offering of multi-service packages that include domestic long-distance minutes, which promotes traffic volumes but reduces average revenue per minute.

International Long-distance Revenues

International long-distance revenues decreased by 18.2% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This decrease was due to a decline in outgoing traffic of 33.1%, reflecting a decrease in Mexico's economic activity as well as decreased levels of traffic from mobile phone operators, partially offset by an increase in average revenue per minute. Revenues from incoming international long-distance traffic decreased by 7.0% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008, mainly due to an 11.3% decline in incoming traffic.

Revenues from Interconnection Service

Revenues from interconnection service decreased by 12.4% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This decrease was due to a reduction in the calling party pays rate and a decline of 6.3% in local and 21.6% in the long-distance calling party pays traffic flows.

Revenues from Internet Access Service

Revenues from Internet access service increased by 24.8% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This increase was primarily due to an increase of 40.1% in the number of Internet access customer accounts, totaling 6.4 million at September 30, 2009, partially offset by lower average revenues per customer account.

Revenues from Corporate Networks

Revenues from corporate networks increased by 13.0% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This increase was due to higher sales of virtual private networks (VPN) services and data-related value-added services.

Other Revenues

Other revenues decreased by 2.1% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This decrease was mainly due to lower revenues from our billing and collection services, partially offset by increased sales of computers at Telmex stores.

Operating Costs and Expenses

Cost of Sales and Services

Costs of sales and services increased by 4.1% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This increase was primarily due to higher labor costs and cost of goods sold attributable to higher sales of computers and telecommunications equipment for corporate customers.

Commercial, Administrative and General Expenses

Commercial, administrative and general expenses increased by 5.9% in the nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This increase was mainly due to higher expenses related to labor costs, charges for doubtful accounts and higher commissions related to growth of broadband services.

Interconnection Costs

Interconnection costs decreased by 16.6% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. This decrease was mainly due to a decline in the rate paid to mobile phone operators for calls under the calling party pays system and a decline in calling party pays traffic.

Depreciation and Amortization

Depreciation and amortization increased slightly by 0.3% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008.

Operating Income

Operating income decreased by 12.8% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008, primarily due to the 4.1% decrease in revenues. Operating margin was 29.8% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to 32.7% in the same period in 2008, as the mix of our revenues continued to shift from voice services to Internet access and corporate networks.

Other Expenses, Net

Other expenses, net increased by 36.0% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008. Other expenses, net were lower for the first nine months of 2008 as a result of tax benefits we recognized in 2008 derived from a tax compliance incentive program established by the Mexican government.

Financing Cost, Net

For the first nine months of 2009, financing cost, net was P.3,094 million compared to P.5,424 million at September 30, 2008. This decrease resulted from the following factors:

Interest income decreased by 7.0% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008, primarily due to a lower average level of interest-bearing assets;

Interest expense decreased by 9.2% in the first nine months of 2009 compared to the same period in 2008, primarily due to a decrease in average level of indebtedness, partially offset by higher net fair-value losses on interest-rate swaps; and

We recorded a net exchange gain of P.1,041 million in the first nine months of 2009, compared to a net exchange loss of P.856 million in the same period in 2008. This net exchange gain was primarily due to net gains on cross-currency swaps that matured or were terminated and the slight appreciation of the peso against the U.S. dollar during the first nine months of 2009.

Income Tax

We have recorded provisions for income tax of P.6,970 million for the first nine months of 2009 compared to P.7,047 million for the same period in 2008. Our effective rate of corporate income tax as a percentage of pretax profit was 31.1% for the first nine months of 2009 and 29.1% for the same period in 2008. This increase was primarily due to the effects of the application of inflation indexation for tax purposes.

Selected Balance Sheet and Other Data

At September 30, 2009, cash and cash equivalents totaled P.7,827 million, compared to P.6,137 million at December 31, 2008. During the nine months ended September 30, 2009, we used approximately P.8,992 million to pay dividends and repurchase our own shares, and we incurred approximately P.7,386 million in capital expenditures. Our accounts payable and accrued liabilities at September 30, 2009 were P.16,301 million, compared to P.15,918 million at December 31, 2008. At September 30, 2009, our total assets were P.179,325 million, total liabilities were P.135,385 million and total stockholders' equity was P.43,940 million, compared to total assets of P.187,125 million, total liabilities of P.147,754 million and total stockholders' equity of P.39,371 million at December 31, 2008.

Capital Expenditures and Other Uses of Cash

Our capital expenditures totaled P.7,386 million in the first nine months of 2009, and we anticipate that our total capital expenditures for 2009 will be approximately P.8,000 million (approximately U.S.$613 million). For 2010, we expect that our capital expenditures will be approximately P.7,500 million (approximately U.S.$522 million). Our budgeted amount excludes any acquisitions that we may make in the future.

We also made, based on actuarial estimates, a contribution to Telmex's employee pension fund in the amount of P.5,600 million in the third quarter of 2009.

Indebtedness

At September 30, 2009, we had total indebtedness of P.95,385 million (approximately U.S.$7,063 million), a decrease of 10.7% compared to December 31, 2008. In August 2009, we prepaid a portion of a syndicated loan in the amount of approximately P.16,726 million (U.S.$1,300 million) that was originally scheduled to mature in October 2009. In addition, during the first nine months of 2009, we repaid debt in the amount of P.4,654 million (approximately U.S.$346 million) at maturity. In July 2009, we issued two series of peso-denominated senior notes (certificados bursátiles) in Mexico in an aggregate principal amount of P.8,000 million, P.4,000 million of which mature in July 2011 and the remainder of which mature in July 2013. On November 3, 2009, we issued two series of peso-denominated senior notes (certificados bursátiles) in Mexico in an aggregate principal amount of P.6,000 million, P.4,000 million of which mature in October 2014 and P.2,000 million of which mature in October 2016.

Derivatives

At September 30, 2009, our cross-currency swaps covered U.S.-dollar liabilities of P.56,934 million (approximately U.S.$4,216 million) and our short-term forward exchange contracts covered U.S.-dollar liabilities of P.4,997 million (approximately U.S.$370 million). Together these instruments covered 94.3% of our foreign currency-denominated debt.

Approximately 53.2% of our debt in pesos (P.15,800 million as of September 30, 2009) bears interest at variable rates. At September 30, 2009, the aggregate notional amount of our peso-denominated variable rate to fixed rate interest-rate swaps was P.23,752 million. At September 30, 2009, we had cross-currency coupon swaps that covered interest payments of P.4,726 million (approximately U.S.$350 million).

The aggregate effect of our derivative instruments was a net loss of P.1,495 million during the first nine months of 2009, compared to a net loss of P.2,703 million during first nine months of 2008, in each case, reflected in our financing cost, net. The fair value of our derivative instruments was P.13,376 million as of September 30, 2009, compared to P.20,419 million as of December 31, 2008.

Share Purchase Program

We have continued our share purchase program. During the first nine months of 2009, we purchased 269.8 million L shares for an aggregate consideration of P.3,035 million and 1.4 million A shares for P.15.3 million.

During 2008, we purchased 796.7 million L shares for an aggregate consideration of P.12,764 million and 8.6 million A shares for an aggregate consideration of P.107.7 million.

Recent Events

Regulatory Developments

Between November 2007 and February 2008, the Mexican Federal Competition Commission (Comisión Federal de Competencia, or Competition Commission) began seven industry-wide investigations to determine whether any telecommunications operators, including Telmex and certain of our affiliates, possess substantial market power or are engaged in monopolistic practices in certain segments of the Mexican telecommunications market. In four of these investigations, the Competition Commission determined in a final resolution that, in the geographic areas covered by our network, Telmex and our subsidiary Teléfonos del Noroeste, S.A. de C.V. (Telnor) have substantial power in the following markets: (1) transit services offered to concessionaires of local and long-distance services in 191 areas of local service that such concessionaires cover; (2) certain wholesale markets for dedicated, leased local and domestic long-distance links, as well as the wholesale markets for dedicated, leased international long-distance and interconnection; (3) call origination offered to other concessionaires of long-distance service; and (4) for switched call completion provided to other concessionaires of local and long-distance service.

We filed with the Competition Commission administrative appeals for reconsideration of the two final resolutions described in (1) and (2) above. The Competition Commission rejected our appeals and we filed a petition for constitutional protection (amparo), which is pending. Based on these final resolutions, the Mexican Federal Telecommunications Commission (Comisión Federal de Telecomunicaciones) could impose specific tariff requirements or other special regulations such as additional requirements regarding disclosure of information or quality of service. With respect to the final resolutions described in (3) and (4) above, we plan to file appeals for reconsideration. The outcome of these matters, the timing for their ultimate resolution and the consequences for us are uncertain. Findings adverse to us in any of the Competition Commission proceedings may lead to the imposition of regulations, prohibitions or monetary penalties, which in turn could have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations. See Item 3. Key Information Risk Factors Regulatory developments could hurt our business by limiting our ability to pursue competitive and profitable strategies and Item 4. Information on the Company Regulation Regulatory Initiatives Relating to Competition in our annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended December 31, 2008 (File No. 1-32741), filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on May 29, 2009.

Proposed Tax on Telecommunications Services

The Mexican government recently proposed legislation to impose a new tax of 3% on revenues from certain telecommunication services. The proposal is currently pending in the Mexican Congress. If this legislation is adopted, it could adversely affect our results of operations.

The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements are presented on the same basis of accounting as described in the audited financial statements of Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. and its subsidiaries (collectively the Company or TELMEX) as of December 31, 2008, and for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 2008, and have been prepared in accordance with Mexican Financial Reporting Standards (MFRS) for interim financial information. Accordingly, they do not include all the information and footnotes required by MFRS for complete financial statements. In the opinion of management, all adjustments (consisting of normal recurring accruals) considered necessary for a fair presentation of financial information have been included. The underlying assumptions used for the main estimates are similar to those used as of December 31, 2008.

Operating results for the nine-month period ended September 30, 2009 are not necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the year ended December 31, 2009.

The condensed consolidated balance sheet at December 31, 2008 has been derived from the audited consolidated financial statements at that date but does not include all of the information and footnotes required by MFRS for complete financial statements.

The accounting policies applied on the preparation of the interim financial information are the same applied to the audited consolidated financial statements at December 31, 2008. For further information, refer to the consolidated financial statements and footnotes thereto included in the Company's annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended December 31, 2008.

b) Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with MFRS requires the use of estimates and assumptions in certain areas. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

c) Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. and those of the subsidiaries over which the Company exercises control. All the companies operate in the telecommunications sector or they provide services to companies operating in this sector.

All significant intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated in the consolidated financial statements. Noncontrolling interest refers to certain subsidiaries in which the Company does not hold 100% of the shares.

d) Recognition of the effects of inflation on financial information

In accordance with MFRS B-10, Effects of Inflation, the Company currently operates in a non-inflationary economic environment because the cumulative inflation rate over the three preceding years ended December 31, 2008 and 2007 was 15.01% and 11.56%, respectively. The amounts shown in the accompanying financial statements are expressed in nominal pesos, except for those non-monetary items that include inflation effects at December 31, 2007.

e) New accounting pronouncements

The Company adopted the new accounting pronouncements issued by the Mexican Financial Reporting Standards Research and Development Board (Consejo Mexicano para la Investigación y Desarrollo de Normas de Información Financiera, A.C. or CINIF) that became effective on January 1, 2009 and that affected TELMEX's accounting policies:

MFRS B-7, Business Acquisitions

This standard requires the application of the purchase method for the recognition of business acquisitions, based on (i) identifying that a business is being acquired; (ii) identifying the acquiring entity; (iii) determining the acquisition date; (iv) recognizing identifiable assets, assumed liabilities and noncontrolling interest in the acquired business; (v) a valuation at fair value of the consideration paid for the acquired business; and (vi) recognizing a related goodwill or, in certain, instances, an excess of acquired net assets over purchase price.

MFRS B-8, Consolidated and Combined Financial Statements

This standard establishes guidelines for preparing and presenting consolidated or combined financial statements and related disclosures. This revised standard includes mainly the following: (i) establishes that a controlled special purpose entity (SPE) is considered to be a subsidiary and therefore must be consolidated; (ii) requires consideration of any potential voting rights that might be exercised or converted by an entity, when identifying the existence of control; (iii) states that intermediary controlling companies do not need to file consolidated financial statements under certain requirements; (iv) establishes new terminology regarding controlling interest and noncontrolling interest; and (v) requires that valuation of noncontrolling interest in the financial statements be determined based on the fair value of net assets of the subsidiary and related goodwill at the time of acquisition.

MFRS C-7, Equity Investments in Affiliates and Other Long-term Equity Investments

The purpose of this standard is to establish guidelines for the recognition in accounting of investments in affiliated companies, as well as for the recognition of any other long-term equity investments through which the reporting entity does not have control, joint control or exercise significant influence.

Investments in affiliated companies must be initially recognized based on their fair value and subsequently by applying the equity method. After the first application of the equity method,

TELÉFONOS DE MÉXICO, S.A.B. DE C.V. AND SUBSIDIARIES

the investment in the affiliated companies must be tested for impairment. Special purpose entities over which the reporting entity exercises significant influence must also be considered affiliated companies.

Unlike Mexican accounting Bulletin B-8, this standard establishes that there is significant influence when an entity holds 10% or more of the voting shares in an entity that is listed on a stock exchange, or when it holds 25% or more of the voting shares in an entity not listed on a stock exchange. MFRS C-7 also provides the guidelines for determining the existence of significant influence in the case of SPEs.

MFRS C-8, Intangible Assets

The purpose of this standard is to establish guidelines for the valuation, presentation and disclosure of the initial and subsequent recognition of intangible assets acquired individually or through business acquisitions, or that are generated internally in the entity's normal course of operations.

The standard includes principally: (i) intangible assets are defined and establishes that segregation is not the only condition necessary to determine that an intangible asset is identifiable; (ii) provides additional guidance on the accounting treatment for the initial and subsequent recognition of goodwill and the intangible assets acquired through business acquisitions; (iii) consideration that intangible assets may have a useful life over 20 years; and (vi) a new definition of pre-operating costs is introduced.

The adoption of the new accounting standards mentioned above did not have any impact on the Company's financial statements and did not result in a cumulative adjustment to retained earnings at adoption.

To reduce the risks related to fluctuations in exchange rates and interest rates, the Company uses derivative financial instruments as hedges associated with its debt. The derivative financial instruments principally used by the Company are as follows:

Cross currency swaps

At September 30, 2009, the Company has cross currency swaps that hedge foreign currency denominated liabilities of P. 56,933,701 (U.S.$ 4,216 million) (P. 73,799,967 or U.S.$ 5,451 million at December 31, 2008). These agreements allow TELMEX to fix the parity of such debt at a weighted average exchange rate of P. 10.5704 per U.S. dollar, as well as establish partially a fixed interest rate of 7.52% for the bonds maturing in 2010 and 8.57% for the bonds maturing in 2015, and a fixed rate equal to the average 28-day THIE, less 26 basis points, for the bank loans.

Additionally in 2009, the Company recognized a net credit of P. 3,119,841 for the early termination of cross currency swaps, which includes P. 1,580,584 related with the cash flow hedging instruments for the debt that was repaid in 2009.

Forwards dollar-peso

At September 30, 2009, contingencies described in the audited financial statements as of December 31, 2008 have not significantly changed. An update on certain of those matters as of September 30, 2009 is as follows:

a) In November 2005, the Federal Telecommunications Commission (COFETEL) issued the guidelines that Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. must follow when making changes to local service areas. In March 2007, COFETEL ordered the consolidation of a package of 70 local service areas and, in September 2008, another package of 125 local service areas, each with its own schedule. Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. has challenged COFETEL's orders through applicable legal procedures, which is currently still pending.

The Company believes, based on the advice of external lawyers who are handling this matter, that although the Company's arguments are well-founded, there is no certainty that Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. will obtain favorable results.

b) Between November 2007 and February 2008, the Federal Competition Commission (COFECO) initiated seven investigations to evaluate if Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. has substantial market power or is engaged in monopolistic practices in certain markets.

In preliminary resolutions, COFECO determined that Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. has substantial market power in the following markets: (i) termination of public switched traffic; (ii) origination of public switched traffic; (iii) local transit services; and (iv) leasing of lines or circuits. Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. expressed its disagreement with the proceedings, objected to the findings and submitted evidence against the allegations.

COFECO has confirmed their resolutions for the investigations described in (iii) and (iv) above, and Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. filed an appeal for reconsideration against such resolutions. This appeal was denied by COFECO. Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. filed a petition for constitutional protection (amparo) against these rulings. Based on COFECO's final resolutions, COFETEL could impose on the Company specific obligations relating to rates, quality of services and disclosure of information.

With respect to the termination of public switched traffic and the origination of public switched traffic markets described in (i) and (ii) above, COFECO issued final resolutions and Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. will file appeals for reconsideration against these rulings and the resolutions will not take effect while that process is under way.

In the remaining three procedures relating to monopolistic practices, COFECO is investigating whether Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. is engaged in monopolistic practices in the following markets: (i) the broad-band Internet access services for domestic residential customers; (ii) fixed-network interconnection services; and (iii) inter-urban transport for switched long distance traffic services. These proceedings are currently in the stage of requesting information. COFECO could determine that Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. engages in monopolistic practices and eventually impose fines against the Company.

Notwithstanding the fact that the arguments of Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. are considered to be well founded, the Company believes, based on the advice of external lawyers who are handling the above-mentioned cases that there is no certainty that the Company will obtain favorable results.

c) The Mexican Social Security Institute (IMSS) audited Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. for the period from 1997 to 2001. As a result of the audit, IMSS determined that Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. owed approximately P. 330,000 (historical amount) as of July 2, 2003 in past due obligations, fines, surcharges, re-expression for inflation and interest. Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. filed an appeal to nullify these findings and related assessment with the Federal Court of Justice for Tax and Administrative Matters. In accordance with Mexican law, by means of a trust fund established with a banking institution, the Company guaranteed payment of the tax assessment in the amount of P. 568,869 through July 19, 2010. The regional metropolitan court declared the resolution to be null, but the administrative authorities filed an appeal, which is still pending.

The Company believes, based on the advice of external lawyers who are handling this matter, that although the reasons for the Company's appeal are well-founded, there is no certainty that the final resolution will be favorable.

d) In accordance with Mexican law, Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. shall be severally liable for all of the obligations transferred to Telmex Internacional, S.A.B. de C.V. as a result of the split-up, for a three-year period, with respect to the terms of the split-up agreement approved by the stockholders of Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. on December 21, 2007. This responsibility, however, does not apply to obligations with those creditors who have given their express consent relieving Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. from these liabilities and consenting to the split-up.

e) On February 10, 2009, COFETEL published the Fundamental Technical Interconnection and Interoperability Plan in the Official Gazette. Such plan could have a negative impact on Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. and on the telecommunications sector in general, since it establishes certain obligations that are not part of interconnection services.

Teléfonos de México, S.A.B. de C.V. will file an appeal against this plan.
