EXPLANATORY NOTE

Effective on December 28, 2012, LJ International Inc. (the Company, LJI, we, or us) changed its fiscal year end from December 31 to March 31, 2013. Since we have previously filed an annual report on Form 20-F for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2011, the next relevant reporting period for us to report on is from January 1, 2012 to March 31, 2012. This three month period involves the filing of a transition report on Form 20-F (the Transition Report) for the transition period of January 1, 2012 through March 31, 2012 (the Transition Period). Thereafter, each subsequent fiscal year (starting with April 1, 2012 to March 31, 2013) would be the subject of an annual report on Form 20-F.

The rules regarding the filing of a Transition Report under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act) are set forth in SEC Exchange Act Rule 13a-10 since the Company is an issuer of securities registered pursuant to Section 12 of the Exchange Act.

Rule 13a-10 sets forth the applicable regulations for the Company as a foreign private issuer in subsection (g) thereof, in relevant part as follows:

- a. The Transition Report must be filed within three months after the later of (i) the close of the Transition Period or (ii) the date on which the Company made the determination to change its fiscal year end (subsection (g)(4));
- b. The Transition Report need not respond to all of the items in Form 20-F; rather, the Transition Report only needs to respond to Item 5 Operating and Financial Review and Prospects; Item 8.A.7. Material legal, arbitration or governmental proceedings; Item 13 Defaults, Dividend Arrearages and Delinquencies; Item 14 Material Modifications to the Rights of Security Holders and Use of Proceeds; and Item 17 or Item 18 Financial Statements (subsection (g)(4)); and
- c. The financial statements for the Transition Period may be unaudited and condensed as permitted in Article 10 of Regulation S-X (subsection (g)(4)).

ITEM 5. OPERATING AND FINANCIAL REVIEW AND PROSPECTS

The following discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with our financial statements and notes to the financial statements appearing elsewhere in this Form 20-F. See Special Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements.

For the three months ended March 31, 2012, we reported revenues totaling $52.2 million, up 27% from $41.1 million for the same period last year. The increase was due to a 44% increase in sales of LJ's retail operation to $36.7 million from $25.5 million a year earlier. The wholesale operation maintained at a similar level as $15.5 million for the same period last year.

Despite the increase in total revenue, the operating income and the net income both decreased because of the continued investment in new store openings, and other initiatives to support business development and infrastructure upgrades for long-term growth, and some expenses of infrequent nature incurred. Operating income for the three months ended March 31, 2012 was $0.76 million, down 82% from $4.2 million for the same period last year. Net loss for the three months ended March 31, 2012 was $0.17 million, down 105% from net income of $3.34 million for the same period last year.

The ENZO retail chain in China has increased its store numbers by 6 to a total of 208 as of March 31, 2012 from a total of 202 as of December 31, 2011, while there were 138 stores as of March 31, 2011. As we increased our store numbers and entered into new cities, we also stepped up our advertising and marketing expenditures in order to further improve our brand awareness and to better prepare for future growth. As a result, operating income for retail for the three months ended March 31, 2012 has decreased to $1.14 million or 68% from $3.55 million for the same period last year. The net income for retail operation has decreased to $0.52 million for the three months ended March 31, 2012 from $3.02 million for the same period last year, down by 83% which was mainly due to the change in fair value of warrants and options liabilities of $0.23 million related to the preferred shares and warrants issued in May, 2011 and the interest expenses of US$0.34 million.

As for the wholesale operation, revenue for the three months ended March 31, 2012 of US$15.5 million, maintaining at a similar level as for the same period last year, recorded an operating income of $0.61 million and a net income of $0.3 million as compared to an operating income of $0.95 million and a net income of $0.62 million for the same period last year. The net income of $0.3 million for the three months ended March 31, 2012 included interest expenses of US$0.21 million.

The revenue mix of the two streams of business of retail and wholesale were roughly in the ratio of 70% and 30% for the three months ended March 31, 2012 as compared to a ratio of 62% and 38% for the same period in 2011, respectively. As the growth rate for our retail revenue is expected to continue to exceed the growth rate for our wholesale revenue, our retail operation is expected to continue to contribute a more significant part in our future growth strategies.

ENZO's 208 stores are located in 52 cities throughout China including Hong Kong and Macau. We own and manage all our stores in that we do not have any franchising arrangement with any parties. Most of our stores operate in department stores and shopping malls where daily revenue are first collected by the department stores or shopping mall and then reimbursed to the Company on a monthly basis. This arrangement helps with consumer traffic and also reduces the security risk of cash management. We will continue to expand ENZO's store coverage in accordance with these policies of owning all our future stores and having most of the future stores in department stores or shopping malls.

It is possible that the European economic turmoil may slow down the growth rate of luxury goods demand in China's retail market and/or adversely affect the economic recovery of the US market. However, we are conservatively optimistic that we can continue to drive revenue growth in both our retail and wholesale operation in the coming year and hopefully with the relative growth in net income.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

The preparation of our consolidated financial statements requires us to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of our assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. These estimates are based on our historical experience and on various other assumptions that we believe to be reasonable. Estimates are evaluated on an ongoing basis, but actual results may differ from these estimates.

Critical accounting policies are those that, in management's view, are most important in the portrayal of our financial condition and results of operations. We believe that the following accounting policies involve a higher degree of judgment and complexity in their application and require us to make significant accounting estimates. The following descriptions of critical accounting policies, judgments and estimates should be read in conjunction with our consolidated financial statements and other disclosures included in this annual report.

Income taxes and uncertain tax positions. Income taxes are accounted for under the asset and liability method. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases and operating loss and tax credit carry forwards. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. We record a valuation allowance against deferred tax assets that it determines to be more-likely-than-not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized.

We only recognize tax benefits related to uncertain tax positions when such positions are more likely than not of being sustained upon examination. For such positions, the amount of tax benefit that we recognize is the largest amount of tax benefit that is more than fifty percent likely of being sustained upon the ultimate settlement of such uncertain position. We record interest and penalties as a component of income tax expense.

As of March 31, 2012 and December 31, 2011, we have not provided for income taxes on the undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries since we consider such earnings to be indefinitely reinvested. The amount of cash held by entities where earnings are considered to be permanently reinvested was $10 million as of March 31, 2012 and December 31, 2011. If in the future we decide to repatriate such foreign earnings, we would incur incremental income tax. However, our intent is to keep these funds indefinitely reinvested and our current plans do not demonstrate a need to repatriate funds to satisfy domestic liquidity needs arising in the ordinary course of business, including liquidity needs associated with our domestic debt service requirements.

Collectability of Accounts Receivable. Our general credit terms range from 30 days to 90 days for our wholesale customers. The receivables related to our retail business are primarily reimbursements from mall operators in the PRC where our retail shops are located, such mall operators will collect the sales proceeds from our customers on our behalf upon purchases with remittance term ranges from 30 days to 60 days. Our management has a credit policy in place and the exposure to credit risk is monitored on an ongoing basis. Credit evaluations are performed on all customers requiring credit over a certain amount. Our international sales are settled via letters of credit or open accounts. For export sales on open accounts, we purchased trade credit insurance to cover the risk of collectability, the insured percentage is 85% on the invoiced amount to customers. Past due balances over 120 days and over a specified amount are reviewed individually for collectability.

We make specific allowance for doubtful accounts based on our best estimate of the amount of losses that could result from the inability or intention of our existing customers not to make the required payments. We generally review the allowance by taking into account factors such as historical experience, age of the accounts receivable balances and economic conditions that may affect a customer's ability to pay.

Goodwill Impairment. Goodwill is not amortized, but instead is tested for impairment at the reporting unit level at least on an annual basis at the balance sheet date or more frequently if certain indicators arise that would more likely than not reduce the fair value of a reporting unit below its carrying amount. Goodwill impairment is tested using a two-step approach. The first step compares the fair value of each reporting unit to its carrying amount, including goodwill. If the fair value of the reporting unit exceeds its carrying amount, goodwill is not considered to be impaired and the second step is not required. If the carrying amount of a reporting unit exceeds its fair value, the second step compares the implied fair value of goodwill to the carrying value of the reporting unit's goodwill. The implied fair value of goodwill is determined in the same manner to accounting for a business combination with allocation of the assessed fair value to all of the assets and liabilities of that reporting unit. The excess of the fair value of the reporting unit over the amounts assigned to the assets and liabilities is the implied fair value of goodwill. We perform our annual impairment review of goodwill at the end of each fiscal year.

We have determined that iBBC Inc., a subsidiary of the Company in the US, is the reporting unit for goodwill impairment testing. The fair value of iBBC Inc. is determined based on the discounted expected cash flow method.

Table of Contents

The significant assumptions used in the discounted cash flow model as of December 31, 2011 are:

Five-year discounted cash flow is projected. Basic assumptions in the cash flow projection include, among others, an estimated 0% for 2012 and 2% annual growth in turnover in the coming 4 years with reference to the unanticipated growth over 300% in 2011 which we believed it might not be a substantial growth rate in future, hence we kept the growth rate at minimal level. We cannot estimate any projection beyond 5 years with reasonable accuracy, since the business environment is rapidly changing;

The present value of the future free cash flows is calculated using the calculated weighted average cost of capital (WACC) of 9.11% to determine the discrete and terminal values;

The calculation of WACC uses a capital asset pricing model (CAPM) based on a combination of the equity risk premium and the cost of debts.

The use of discounted cash flow methodology requires significant judgments including estimation of future revenues and costs, industry economic factors, future profitability, determination of iBBC Inc. 's weighted average cost of capital and other variables. Although we believe that the assumptions adopted in our discounted cash flow model are reasonable, those assumptions are inherently unpredictable and uncertain. If the reporting unit is at risk of failing step one of the impairment test, we will describe the material events, trends and uncertainties that affect the reported income and the extent to which income is so affected.

We had goodwill of US$1,521,000 as of March 31, 2012 and December 31, 2011. The estimated fair value of the reporting unit exceeded its carrying value by 162% at December 31, 2011. Consequently, no goodwill impairment has been recognized.

Allowance for Obsolete Inventories. We established inventory allowance for unmarketable inventory in an amount equal to the difference between the cost of inventory and its estimated net realizable value based upon assumptions about future demand and market conditions. Management records a write-down against inventory based on several factors, including expected sales price of the item and the length of time the item has been in inventory. If actual demand and market conditions are less favorable than those projected by management, additional inventory allowance could be required. Inventory write-down is charged to cost of goods sold.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments. We follow guidance issued by the Financial Accounting Standards Board for financial instruments. Fair value represents the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date (also referred to as an exit price). We utilize a hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that gives the highest priority to observable inputs and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs as follows:

Table of Contents

Financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, restricted cash, trade receivables, trade and other payables, derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, bank overdrafts, notes payable, letter of credit, shareholder's loan, warrants and options liabilities and convertible redeemable preferred shares of a subsidiary, Enzo Jewelry Inc. The carrying values of these financial instruments, other than derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, convertible redeemable preferred shares, and warrants and options liabilities approximate their fair values due to their short-term maturities. The convertible redeemable preferred shares were initially recorded at issue price net of issuance costs and the fair value of the warrants and option liabilities bifurcated at issuance date. We recognize changes in the redemption value immediately as they occur and adjust the carrying value of the convertible redeemable preferred shares to equal the redemption value at the end of each reporting period. The warrants and option issued in connection with the convertible redeemable preferred shares were recorded as a liability at fair value as determined on the day of issuance and subsequently adjusted to the fair value at each reporting date. We determined the fair values of the convertible redeemable preferred shares, warrants and option liabilities with the assistance of independent third party valuation firm.

The carrying values of notes payable approximate their fair values as the interest rates on these loans are reset at each month based on prevailing market interest rates.

Level 1 Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 Include other inputs other than quoted market prices that are directly or indirectly observable in active markets.

Level 3 Unobservable inputs which are supported by little or no market activity.

Valuation techniques used to measure fair value maximize the use of observable inputs. As such, when available, we measure the fair value of financial instruments based on quoted market prices in active markets, valuation techniques that use observable market-based inputs or unobservable inputs that are corroborated by market data. Pricing information we obtain from third parties is internally validated for reasonableness prior to use in the consolidated financial statements. When observable market prices are not readily available, we generally estimate the fair value using valuation techniques that rely on alternate market data or inputs that are generally less readily observable from objective sources and are estimated based on pertinent information available at the time of the applicable reporting periods. In certain cases, fair values are not subject to precise quantification or verification and may fluctuate as economic and market factors vary and our evaluation of those factors changes. Although we use our best judgment in estimating the fair value of these financial instruments, there are inherent limitations in any estimation technique. In these cases, a minor change in an assumption could result in a significant change in its estimate of fair value, thereby increasing or decreasing the amounts of our consolidated assets, liabilities, equity and net income or loss. See note 21 to our consolidated financial statements, Fair Value of Financial Instruments, for further details.

Table of ContentsA. OPERATING RESULTS.*Reclassifications

We have corrected the classification of certain costs between costs of goods sold, selling, general and administrative expenses, and depreciation on the consolidated statement of income (loss) and comprehensive income (loss) for the three months period ended March 31, 2011. Accordingly, reclassifications have been made on the unaudited consolidated statements of income (loss) and comprehensive income (loss) with respect to the periods presented below. Refer to notes 2(n) and 22 to the consolidated financial statements for details of these reclassifications.

Retail	$ 36,723	$ 25,518	44%
	$ 52,211	$ 41,109	27%

The revenue from jewelry products for wholesale of $15,488,000 for the three months ended March 31, 2012 remained at a similar level as for the same period in 2011.

The Company's retail revenue increased by $11,205,000 or 44% to $36,723,000 for the three months ended March 31, 2012, compared to $25,518,000 for the same period in 2011. This increase was primarily due to the increase in number of ENZO retail stores, and better performance of individual stores and changes in its inventory mix. The Company opened 6 new stores during the three months ended March 31, 2012, which are in better locations with better quality customers. There was a weighted average of 205 ENZO retail stores in full operation for the three months ended March 31, 2012 compared to a total of 138 ENZO retail stores at March 31, 2011.

The gross profit margin of wholesale increased 4% to 25% for the three months ended March 31, 2012 from 21% for the same period in 2011. This was mainly attributable to the focus on growing profitable accounts, rather than on the size of sales orders.

The gross profit margin of the ENZO retail operation dropped to 61% for the three months ended March 31, 2012 compared to 64% for the same period in 2011 which was attributable to the changes of product mix to broaden the product range to expand into a wider customer base.

For the wholesale business, the selling, general and administrative expenses increased by 41% for the three months ended March 31, 2012, compared to the same period in 2011. The increase was mainly attributable to staff payment and increase in other expenses, such as, charges for engagement of international accounting firm for advisory services. The expenses incurred by the retail business of $20,368,000, a 65% increase of the same for the three months ended March 31, 2011, comprised advertising cost of $1,347,000 and other marketing campaign cost of $1,314,000 as the continuous effort to build up the ENZO brand in the market, rental cost of $8,392,000, staff cost of $6,479,000 which included $1,826,000 of commissions based on percentage of sales, and other expenses of $2,836,000. The increase was mainly related in the rental expenses, which was driven by higher sales due mainly to better product mix. The rental costs of more than 98% of the retail stores were based on contingent rents determined based on certain percentages of sales, and 90% of these stores did not have any minimum rentals. The corporate expenses included items of corporate overheads, such as charges for legal and professional advisory services.

Depreciation of wholesale business decreased by 2% to $359,000 for the three months ended March 31, 2012 from $365,000 for the same period in 2011, which was due to the disposal of some plant and equipment during the period. Depreciation of retail business increased by 79% to $924,000 for the three months ended March 31, 2012 from $517,000 for the same period in 2011, which reflected the amortization of the capital expenditures of renovations on the increased number of retail stores during the year.

We are incorporated in the British Virgin Islands and, under current laws of the British Virgin Islands, are not subject to tax on income or on capital gains.

For our subsidiaries in Hong Kong, the prevailing corporate income tax rate is 16.5%.

Effective January 1, 2008, the National People's Congress of China enacted a new PRC Enterprise Income Tax Law, under which foreign invested enterprises and domestic companies are subject to enterprise income tax at a uniform rate of 25%. During the transition period, the tax rate for entities operating in the Shenzhen Special Economic Zone gradually increased to coincide with the new tax rate within five years starting from 2008 and reaching the uniform rate of 25% in 2012. The applicable tax rate is 18%, 20%, 22%, 24% and 25% for the years ending December 31, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011 and 2012 onwards, respectively.

One of our subsidiaries in China is registered to be qualified as Foreign Investment Enterprises in China and is eligible for certain tax holidays and concessions. Accordingly, this Chinese subsidiary is exempt from Chinese income tax for two years starting from its first profit-making year, followed by a 50% reduction of tax for the next three years. As of March 31, 2012, the PRC income tax is calculated at the applicable rates relevant to this subsidiary, which currently is 12.5%.

Income taxes of wholesale business included the benefits of deferred tax assets of $96,000 and $nil recognized for the three months ended March 31, 2012 and 2011 respectively.

Income taxes of retail business included deferred tax expenses of $170,000 and reduced by $450,000 for the tax prepaid on intra-entity profits on assets remaining within the group.

Inflation

We do not consider inflation to have had a material impact on our results of operations over the last three years.

Foreign Exchange

Approximately 29% and 69% of our sales are denominated in US Dollars and Renminbi, respectively, during the three months ended March 31, 2012, whereas the other sales are mainly denominated in Hong Kong Dollars. The largest portion of our expenses is denominated in Renminbi, then Hong Kong Dollars, then US Dollars. The exchange rate of the Hong Kong Dollar is currently pegged to the US Dollar, but during the past several years the market exchange rate has fluctuated within a narrow range. The Chinese government principally sets the exchange rate between the Renminbi and all other currencies. As a result, the exchange rates between the Renminbi and the US Dollar and the Hong Kong Dollar have fluctuated in the past and may fluctuate in the future. If the value of the Renminbi or the Hong Kong Dollar appreciates relative to the US Dollar, such fluctuation may have a positive effect on the results of our operations. If the value of the Renminbi or the Hong Kong Dollar depreciates relative to the US Dollar, such fluctuation may have a negative effect on the results of our operations. As of March 31, 2012, the Company held non-deliverable forward contracts with a bank with total notional amount of US$1,000,000 to hedge its RMB exposures of operating cost in normal course of business.

Governmental economic and political policies and factors

For information regarding governmental economic, fiscal, monetary and political policies that could materially affect our operations, directly or indirectly, please refer to the Risk Factors section on pages 5 to 13 of our Annual Report on Form 20-F for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2011.

B. LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES.

We have no direct business operations other than the ownership of our subsidiaries and investment securities. Our ability to pay dividends and meet other obligations depends upon our receipt of dividends or other payments from our operating subsidiaries and investment securities. Our operating subsidiaries are subject to restrictions on their ability to make distributions to us, including as a result of restrictive covenants and minimum net worth requirements in loan agreements, restrictions on the conversion of local currency into US dollars or other hard currency and other regulatory restrictions.

Impact of recently issued US GAAP accounting standards

In December 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement on disclosures about offsetting assets and liabilities. Under this pronouncement, entities are required to disclose both gross information and net information about both instruments and transactions eligible for offset in the statement of financial position and instruments and transactions subject to an agreement similar to a master netting arrangement. This scope would include derivatives, sale and repurchase agreements and reverse sale and repurchase agreements, and securities borrowing and securities lending arrangements. An entity is required to apply the amendments for annual reporting periods beginning on or after January 1, 2013, and interim periods within those annual periods. An entity should provide the disclosures required by those amendments retrospectively for all comparative periods presented. We do not expect this update to have a material impact on its financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

During each of the last three fiscal years, we did not spend any significant amounts on company-sponsored research and development activities.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES*(a) Basis of consolidation*

The consolidated financial statements include the financial statements of LJI and its subsidiaries. All intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated upon consolidation.

The accompanying unaudited consolidated interim financial statements have been prepared by the Company without an audit, pursuant to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (US GAAP), and the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). As permitted by the rules of the SEC governing interim financial statements, the accompanying unaudited condensed interim financial statements do not include all of the disclosures that would normally be required by the US GAAP. In the opinion of management, the unaudited interim consolidated financial statements reflect all adjustments, consisting only of normal and recurring adjustments, necessary to present fairly the Company's unaudited consolidated balance sheets as of March 31, 2012, the Company's unaudited consolidated statements of income (loss) and comprehensive income (loss), cash flows and shareholders' equity for the three-month periods ended March 31, 2012 and 2011. Interim period results are not necessarily indicative of results of operations or cash flows for a full-year period. The consolidated balance sheet data as of December 31, 2011 were derived from audited consolidated financial statements, but do not include all disclosures required by generally accepted accounting principles.

These unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements and the notes thereto should be read in conjunction with the Company's audited consolidated financial statements.

Advertising and promotion expenses are included in selling, general and administrative expenses and are generally expensed when incurred. Advertising costs were US$1,398 and US$1,046 for the three months ended March 31, 2012 and 2011, respectively.

(e) Earnings per share

Basic earnings per share is computed by dividing net income attributable to LJ International Inc. common shareholders by the weighted average number of ordinary shares outstanding during the year. The Company has determined that its convertible preference shares of its subsidiary, Enzo Jewelry Inc. (ENZO) participate in undistributed earnings on the same basis as the ordinary shares of ENZO. The effect on the consolidated earnings per share of the preferred shares issued by ENZO has been included in computing ENZO's earnings per share data using the two-class method. Under this method, net income attributable to ENZO common shareholders is allocated on a pro rata basis to the ordinary and convertible preference shares to the extent that each class may share in income for the period had it been distributed. Losses are not allocated to the participating securities. Diluted earnings per share of ENZO is computed using the more dilutive of (a) the two-class method or (b) the if-converted method. The basic and diluted earnings per share of ENZO is then included in the consolidated earnings per share computations of the Company based on the consolidated group's holding of the ENZO's securities. The consolidated diluted earnings per share of the Company reflect the potential dilution that could occur if securities or other contracts to issue common shares were exercised or converted into common shares, which also include the potential dilutive effect of the preferred shares of ENZO if they are converted into the Company's ordinary shares through the flip-over option (note 15).

(f) Fair value of financial instruments

Fair value represents the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date (also referred to as an exit price). The Company utilizes a hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that gives the highest priority to observable inputs and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs as follows:

Financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, restricted cash, trade receivables, trade and other payables, derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, bank overdrafts, notes payable, letter of credit, shareholder's loan, warrants and options liabilities and convertible redeemable preferred shares of ENZO. The carrying values of these financial instruments, other than derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, convertible redeemable preferred shares of ENZO, and warrants and options liabilities approximate their fair values due to their short-term maturities. The convertible redeemable preferred shares of ENZO were initially recorded at issue price net of issuance costs and the fair value of the warrants and option liabilities bifurcated at issuance date. The Company recognizes changes in the redemption value immediately as they occur and adjusts the carrying value of the convertible redeemable preferred shares to equal the redemption value at the end of each reporting period (note 15). The warrants and option issued in connection with the convertible redeemable preferred shares were recorded as a liability at fair value as determined on the day of issuance and subsequently adjusted to the fair value at each reporting date. The Company with the assistance of independent third party valuation firm determined the fair values of the convertible redeemable preferred shares, warrants and option liabilities (note 15).

The carrying values of notes payable approximate their fair values as the interest rates on these loans are reset at each month based on prevailing market interest rates.

Level 1 Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 Include other inputs other than quoted market prices that are directly or indirectly observable in active markets.

Level 3 Unobservable inputs which are supported by little or no market activity.

Valuation techniques used to measure fair value maximize the use of observable inputs. As such, when available, the Company measures the fair value of financial instruments based on quoted market prices in active markets, valuation techniques that use observable market-based inputs or unobservable inputs that are corroborated by market data. Pricing information the Company obtains from third parties is internally validated for reasonableness prior to use in the consolidated financial statements. When observable market prices are not readily available, the Company generally estimates the fair value using valuation techniques that rely on alternate market data or inputs that are generally less readily observable from objective sources and are estimated based on pertinent information available at the time of the applicable reporting periods. In certain cases, fair values are not subject to precise quantification or verification and may fluctuate as economic and market factors vary and the Company's evaluation of those factors changes. Although the Company uses its best judgment in estimating the fair value of these financial instruments, there are inherent limitations in any estimation technique. In these cases, a minor change in an assumption could result in a significant change in its estimate of fair value, thereby increasing or decreasing the amounts of the Company's consolidated assets, liabilities, equity and net income or loss. See note 21, Fair Value of Financial Instruments, for further details.

Table of Contents2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (Continued)(g) Available-for-sale securities*

The Company classifies its investment fund as available-for-sale securities. The fund is of current nature and the market to trade is readily available, except it is restricted and secures obligations under trade credit banking facilities. Investments classified as available for sale securities are reported at fair values at the end of each reporting period. Unrealized holding gains and losses for available-for-sale securities are excluded from earnings and reported in other comprehensive income until realized. The Company routinely reviews available-for-sale securities for other-than-temporary declines in fair value below the cost basis, and when events or changes in circumstances indicate the carrying value of an asset may not be recoverable, the security is written down to fair value. Gains and losses on sales of securities are computed on a specific identification basis. Available-for-sale securities comprise:

Current period (reduction) addition	(6)	1,060
At the end of the period/year	3,554	3,560

The cumulative amount of tax loss carried forward was US$8,682 and US$8,779 as of March 31, 2012 and 2011, respectively, for the Company's certain subsidiaries in Hong Kong and the PRC. The PRC net operating loss will expire beginning 2015, while the losses could be carried forward indefinitely in Hong Kong.

In assessing the realizability of deferred tax assets, management considers whether it is more likely than not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets in relation to the tax loss carried forward will not be realized. The ultimate realization of deferred tax assets is dependent upon the generation of future taxable income during the periods in which those temporary differences become deductible.

Based on the history of the Company's profitability, management believes that it is more likely than not that the Company will realize the benefits of the deferred tax assets of US$2,459 and US$2,191, net of valuation allowances as of March 31, 2012 and December 31, 2011.

(b) Warrants (Continued)

- (i) On September 25, 2006, the Company issued short-term and long-term warrants to the investors of a private placement. The short-term warrants represent an option to purchase in the aggregate up to 236,909 shares of common stock at $4.221 per share at any time during the period from September 25, 2006 until February 5, 2007, which have been exercised in 2007, and the long-term warrants represent a five-year option to purchase in the aggregate up to 366,668 shares of common stock at $4.50 per share at any time during the period from March 25, 2007 until March 25, 2012.

The Company has also issued warrants to the placement agent of the private placement to purchase 29,333 shares of the Company. The warrants issued to the placement agent are identical to the long-term warrants.

The anti-dilutive provisions contained in the warrant agreements provides that the exercise price of the outstanding warrants is subject to adjustment when the Company issues common stock in certain circumstances at a price lower than the exercise price of the warrants. Subsequent to the private placement completed in October 2010 (note 12(a)(ii)), the outstanding warrants of 329,334, which represents the warrants hold by both the investors and the placement agent, at exercise price of US$4.5 per share was adjusted to 456,000 at exercise price of US$3.25 per share.

- (ii) In October 2010, in connection of the issuance of a number of common shares of the Company to some institutional investors (note 12(a)(ii)), ENZO also issued warrants to these investors to purchase a number of shares of common stock of ENZO which equal to 4.25% of the outstanding equity of ENZO when the market valuation of ENZO upon completion of the offering and valued at the public offering price of ENZO common stock is equal to or greater than US$300 million. The exercise price is a price per share which is determined as of the share determination time equal to the quotient determined by dividing the holder's pro rata portion of US$12.75 million by the share quantity.

ENZO has also issued warrants to the placement agent of the private placement to purchase a number of shares of common stock of ENZO which equal to 2.75% of the outstanding equity of ENZO when the market valuation of ENZO upon completion of the offering and valued at the public offering price of ENZO common stock is equal to or greater than US$300 million. The warrants issued to the placement agent are identical to the warrants issued to the investors. The exercise price is a price per share which is determined as of the share determination time equal to the quotient determined by US$8.25 million by the share quantity.

The warrants expire at the earlier of (i) October 26, 2014 or (ii) the business day immediately preceding an initial public offering of ENZO.

The fair value of warrants was valued using the Black-Scholes option pricing model, with the assistance of an independent valuation firm. The fair value of the warrants was determined to be insignificant at issuance date and subsequently at the end of each reporting period presented. The Company allocated the aggregate proceeds from the private placement between common stock and the underlying warrants, with the common share proceeds included in additional paid in capital.

- (iii) On May 3, 2011, ENZO issued 359,826 redeemable preferred shares to some institutional investors, to fund expenditures for new store openings, marketing expenses and general working capital related to the expansion of its retail business in the PRC (note 15). As part of the transaction, ENZO also issued some warrants to these institutional investors. The warrants are exercisable any time after the issuance date, in whole or in part, with the exercise price per share being the quotient determined by dividing the holders pro rata portion of US$25,875 by holders pro rata portion of 10.35% of the common stock deemed outstanding of ENZO on a fully diluted basis, on the date of the exercise note

The warrants were recorded as liabilities as the number of shares of ENZO to be obtained is variable, and initially recorded at fair value at issuance date. The fair value of the warrants was US$2.24 million and US$2.07 million as of March 31, 2012 and December 31, 2011. Changes in fair value of the warrants in each reporting period are included in the consolidated statement of income (loss) and comprehensive income (loss). A loss of US$169 from the change in fair value of the warrants was recognized in the consolidated statement of income (loss) and comprehensive income (loss) during the three months ended March 31, 2012 (note 21).

The fair value of the warrants was determined by adopting the Monte Carlo simulation valuation methodology, with the assistance of an independent valuation firm, using the following assumptions:

Assumptions	Valuation as of March 31, 2012	Valuation as of December 31, 2011
Underlying asset value	$ 145,100	$ 142,300
Risk free rate	0.42%	0.31%
Volatility of the warrant	33.50%	33.93%
% of share of the Company upon the exercise of flip-over option of the warrant	9.69	9.69

When estimating the fair values of the underlying asset value of ENZO as of the issuance date, the Company first determined its enterprise value by means of the discounted cash flow method. The discounted cash flow derived by management considered the ENZO's future business plan, specific business and financial risks, the stage of development of the ENZO's operations and economic and competitive elements affecting the ENZO's business, industry and market. Volatility is the adjusted annualized standard deviation of the continuously compounded rates of daily return on the daily adjusted share price, with the adoption of the average of volatilities of the comparable companies of ENZO. Risk free rate used is based on the corresponding yield to maturity of respective US Sovereign Strips as at the valuation dates.
