Eugene Cella, the President of CJC Enterprises of New York, Inc., has advised us that CJC's retail store in Center Moriches, New York will shortly be closed because it has not been profitable. Mr. Cella believes that the failure of the store is primarily a result of its location which is not on a heavily traveled thoroughfare. CJC intends to open another store in a more favorable location during the third quarter of 2003. CJC's ability to open another store is however, in substantial part, dependant upon its ability to acquire not less than $50,000 of capital. CJC does not now have any meaningful capital and there can be no assurance that CJC will be successful in obtaining sufficient capital.
