33. Description of Issuer's primary areas of operations.

As of the approval date of the present Prospectus, the Issuer, due to its incorporation in 2001, has not performed any operations of producing and/or selling goods (works, services). The principal activity of the Issuer is the control and management of a group of associated and affiliated companies listed in the present Prospectus, which produce and sell milk (dairy) products and juices (drinks, nectars) (further, in combination with the Issuer referred to as the WBD Group).

General Development of the Industry (General Trends).

The Russian market of milk (dairy) products and juices (drinks, nectars) had been steadily growing in the period between the breakdown of the USSR and the 1998 financial crisis, after which a significant drop in consumption followed. By 2000 the market has largely recovered. According to the data of the Russian Union of Juice Producers, total consumption of Russian and imported products and the market of juices and juice-containing drinks amounted in 1998 to 655 mln. liters, in 1999 to 548 mln. liters, in 2000 to 674 mln. liters. The growth of income of the Russian citizens and the increasing preference for juices over fruit, along with the simultaneous growth in demand for a wide range of milk and dairy products, shall provide for the more active consumption of vitamin-rich quality products of various flavors and nutritional characteristics.

Due to the fact that the Issuer was incorporated in 2001, it is impossible to provide comparative data reflecting the Issuer's activities in the sector.

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

In the first half of 2001 about 72% of WBD Group's net revenue came from the sales of dairy products.

According to AC Nielsen's data based on the research in nine largest Russian cities, including Moscow and Saint-Petersburg, in 2000 the WBD Group occupied the leading position in all types of packaged dairy products, except for pasteurized milk, with 38% by volume of traditional and vitamine-fortified dairy products and 53% of dairy desserts. In the juice sector, according to the data of the Russian Union of Juice Producers, as of the end of 2000, the WBD Group occupied 38% of the national market and 46% of the market in Moscow and the Moscow Region – the largest juice consumers in Russia.

Such market presence of the WBD Group on the market is partially explained by a wide range of products. For example, according to the research undertaken by the Association of Independent Marketing Consultants – a Russian company specializing in studying market situation – in 2000 in Moscow the level of customer awareness of J-7, 100% Gold and Lyubimy Sad brands amounted, respectively, to 99%, 75% and 62%.

History of the Issuer's foundation and activities.

Open Joint-Stock Company Wimm-Bill-Dann Foods (hereinafter referred to as the Issuer or WBD) was founded in 2001. The purpose of its creation was to consolidate several production and trading companies, whose shares had been privately owned by a group of persons and were transferred to WBD by including them in the charter capital during its creation in 2001.

The story of WBD Group began in 1992, when the first company owned by a group of persons rented a production line at the Lianozovo Dairy and purchased the first lot of juice concentrates and packaging materials. November 25, 1992 WBD Group produced its first pack of juice under the Wimm-Bill-Dann brand. This name had been chosen in order to attract consumers, who at that point preferred imported products due to their novelty to the market, and also because of the prevailing belief in the higher quality of imported goods. From the very first appearance on the market the name Wimm-Bill-Dann turned into a brand, known to and popular among the majority of Russian consumers.

Plans of the Issuer's future activities.

Due to the specifics of the Issuer's primary area of operations, the Issuer's future activities plans should include the increase in efficiency of WBD Group management. The Issuer's future activities plans are tightly connected with the plans of WBD Group.

The WBD Group is constantly striving to dynamically develop its business and achieve further competitive advantages.

Preparation of the raw material base is the grounds for producing quality dairy products under the Wimm-Bill-Dann brand. The Milk Rivers program is aimed at collaborating with major suppliers of raw milk having an extensive record of work with the WBD Group and a sound financial situation. Under this program WBD Group purchases milking, refrigerating and harvesting machinery from the leading producers, such as De Laval, Westphalia, Kirovets-Landtechnik, and leases it to the milk suppliers on long-term conditions.

The growing dairy market demands an increase in production volumes without a decline in quality. An increase in juice production capacity is also planned.

One of the main competitive advantages of the WBD Group is its powerful and well-established network of independent distributors. In order to support the steady growth of sales, Cash&Carry stores will continue to be built. The growth of additional income is planned through both promoting the primary brands of the WBD Group on the regional markets, and expanding the product range in order to fill major consumer segments, both in terms of flavors and prices.

In general, the plans of future activities of the Issuer and the WBD Group include an intention to fully satisfy the demand of legal entities and private persons in products (works, services), produced (performed, provided) in accordance with its Charter, and to receive profits.

Major Types of Products.

Taking into consideration the fact that the Issuer was only incorporated in 2001, there is no opportunity to determine the major types of products (services).

At the same time, the WBD Group produces and sells milk and dairy products, mineral water, fruit and vegetable juices and drinks, baby food.

Due to the fact that in 2001 the Issuer has no obligation to provide consolidated financial reports, there is no opportunity to specify the major types of products for the WBD Group in general. For example, product types providing over 10% of sales volume (revenue) of OJSC LMK the leading enterprise of the WBD Group, are as follows:

	1998	1999	2000
Sterilized milk	36.3%	34.3%	29.3%
Viscous yogurt	23.9%	27.7%	27.1%

WBD Group exports are represented by the morses (fruit drinks) produced by the WBD Group.

Major Types of Activities.

The priority sphere of operations for the Issuer, incorporated in 2001, is the control and management of the WBD Group.

The Issuer has no information on the major types of activities and major types of products for the past three years, since there exist no financial reports for these periods.

The main spheres of activities for the WBD Group are the production and sale (wholesale and retail) of foods (milk and dairy products, mineral water, fruit and vegetable juices and drinks, baby food), as well as the organization of production and sale of these products.

Taking into consideration the fact that the Issuer has no consolidated financial reports, it is impossible to determine the share of sales volume for the WBD Group in general. At the same time, the leading enterprise of the WBD Group OJSC LMK produces and sells dairy products as follows:

1999 - 87.88%

2000 - 85.72%

Sources of raw materials and services.

The Issuer has no suppliers of tangible assets, since, as mentioned above, it does not perform independent activities in the sphere of production and sales of products. Raw materials for the WBD Group are supplied by Russian producers. The Tetra Pak company is one of the leading suppliers of packaging for the WBD Group (at the same time, due to the absence of the Issuer's consolidated financial reports, it is impossible to determine the share of this supplier in the total volume of supplies). The source of raw materials for the dairy products is raw milk produced on the territory of Russia. The source of raw materials for juices and juice-containing drinks are fruit and vegetable concentrates, the origin of which depends on the area of their growth (e.g. apple – Southern Russia, tomatoes – Eastern and Central Europe).

Product Markets.

Due to the specifics of the Issuer's primary activity, the market for its products is determined by the quantity and location of the enterprises in the WBD Group.

At present the WBD Group market is not limited to the territory of Russia. There exists a plan to expand the market and sell the Group's products in other countries. Apart from the ones already mentioned, the only major factor of possible decrease in demand for the Group's products would be a sharp decrease in the population's purchasing capacity, since the Group's products belong to the convenience category. The strengthening of positions of the foreign dairy producers is possible in the case of considerable investments into building new factories on the territory of Russia.

Stock Management Practices.

Considering the fact that the Issuer is just beginning to conduct operating activities, the practices of managing working capital and stocks have not yet been formed.

WBD Group policy towards working capital and stocks has not been formed due to the absence of consolidated financial reports. At the same time, OJSC LMK deals with this issue in the following way:

Due to the production of large volumes and wide range of products, stocks are limited to 2-3 days.

$K_{\text{working stock}} = N/Z_{\text{av}}$, where

N - sales revenue; FNo 2 p.10

Z_{av} average size of stock per period = 0.5 (F1 p.210 beg. - F1 p.210 end)

$K_{\text{working stock}} = 5191147 / ((628281 - 567937) * 0.5) = 172$

Method suggested by the book: A.D. Sheremet, R.S. Saifulin Methods of Finance Analysis

As of 01.01.2001 the enterprise has decreased the norms of stocks in the warehouses.

Seasonal Character of Operations.

The Issuer's primary activity does not depend on the season.

As for the WBD Group, the highest demand for dairy products is in the winter period, when Russian milk production falls to the minimum. In contrast, the demand for dairy products decreases in the summer, while raw milk production reaches its maximum.

Future Obligations.

In order for OJSC LMK to issue documentary bearer bonds in the amount of 500 000 units, with the nominal price of 1000 rubles each, the Issuer has signed an agreement, in which Open Joint-Stock Company Wimm-Bill-Dann Foods grants a guarantee to Open Joint Stock Company Lianozovo Dairy, in the form of obligation on behalf of OJSC Wimm-Bill-Dann Foods to bear responsibility for the issuer's (OJSC Lianozovo Dairy) fulfillment of obligation towards the bond bearers to retire the full sum of the issue amounting to 500 000 000 rubles, in a timely manner. The Issuer's fulfillment of the obligation for OJSC LMK would have no substantial impact on the Issuer's activities.

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

The Issuer has no other future obligations.

The WBD Group performs and plans to perform signing of purchase contracts for raw materials, as well as sales contracts for its products.

Major Competitors.

The Issuer, due to the specifics of its operations, has no competitors.

The principal competitors of the WBD Group include the enterprises of the Danone and Parmalat groups, OJSC Ostankinsky Dairy , OJSC Cherkizovsky Dairy , Multon and Petmol in Saint-Petersburg, OJSC Lebedyansky in the Kuban Region, Nidan-Ecofrukt in Novosibirsk and other major producers of dairy and juice products.

Risk Factors.

The state of dairy and juice market strongly depends on political, economical and social uncertainties, connected with the general conditions of development of the Russian economy, changes in the population's purchasing capacity and crop yields of fruit and berries.

Following is a description of risks common for the activities of the Issuer and the activities of the WBD Group in general.

Political Risks

Beginning from 1991 Russia has been living in the stage of transition from the single-party system with a centralized economy to the system of democratic pluralism directed towards market conditions. As a result of rapid reforms, and due to the fact that some of them failed, the Russian political system remains unprotected from demonstrations of population's discontent, as well as from disturbances among certain social and ethnic groups of the population. Lack of political stability and stability in the government may have a negative effect on the value of foreign investments in Russia.

A conflict between the federal and regional governments may destabilize the environment in which the WBD Group operates, which would limit WBD's capacity for long-term planning of its activities and have a negative effect on the integrity of investments in Russia.

The Russian Federation includes 89 political subdivisions, some of which have considerable powers regarding their internal matters, in accordance with the agreements they signed with the federal government. In practice, the division of powers between the federal and regional governments is still unclear and subject to debate. This uncertainty may impede WBD's operations and have a negative effect on its capacity to expand its activities.

Furthermore, ethnic, religious, historical and other differences may lead to the appearance of social tensions and armed conflicts. In the period between 1994 and 1996, as well as from 1999 and onwards, the Russian Armed Forces have participated in large-scale surface and airborne operations in Chechnya, which led to the disruption of normal economic activity in Chechnya and caused damage to the economy of the neighboring regions. The spread of violence, as well as measures aimed at its liquidation, such as calling state of emergency, may impede our company's operations and have a negative effect on its capacity to expand its activities.

Economic Risks

Lack of economic stability in Russia may have a negative effect on the operations of the Issuer and the WBD Group.

The collapse of the Soviet Union was followed by various events in the Russian economy, such as:

- considerable decrease in the amount of gross domestic product;
- hyperinflation;
- lack of stability of the national currency;
- high national debt with respect to gross domestic product;

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

weak banking system conditioning low liquidity of Russian companies;
high ratio of unprofitable enterprises continuing their operations due to the absence of effective bankruptcy procedures;
wide spread of barter transactions and nonliquid promissory notes in commercial operations;
wide-spread tax evasion;
growth of gray and black economies;
all-embracing outflow of capital;
high level of corruption and organized crime's interference in economy; considerable growth of unemployment and subemployment; and increasing pauperization of the larger part of Russian population.

The Russian economy is prone to sharp declines. For example, August 17, 1998, in the conditions of rapidly deteriorating economic situation, the Russian government called a default on the issued ruble government securities. The Central Bank discontinued support of the ruble and introduced a temporary moratorium on certain payments in hard currency. These actions led to a rapid strong decline in the ruble exchange rate, an immediate increase in the inflation rate, a dangerous fall in prices of Russian stocks and bonds, as well as the inability of Russian issuers to raise capital on international capital markets.

These problems aggravated as a result of a partial collapse of the Russian banking sector following the events of August 17, 1998, which was demonstrated by the revocation of licenses of the leading Russian banks. As a result of this, the capacity of the banking sector to perform its function as a stable source of liquidity for the Russian companies further decreased, and in some cases depositors lost their money deposited in banks.

There is no guarantee that the latest trends in the Russian economy, such as growth of gross domestic products, relative stability of the ruble and insignificant inflation, will continue, and that there will be no abrupt changes in this sphere. Moreover, recent fluctuations of global oil and gas prices, strengthening of the real exchange rate of ruble in respect to the US dollar and the consequences of the weakened monetary policy, as well as other factors, may have a negative effect of Russian economy and future activities of our company.

Russian infrastructure is in a sorry state, which could lead to disruption of the company's normal economic activity.

Most of Russia's infrastructure dates back to Soviet times and over the last decade no capital investments have been made and no technical maintenance has been done. In the most deplorable condition are railway and highway infrastructure, power facilities, communications systems, and housing. Last winter, a shortage of electricity and heat in the Primorsky region, located in Russia's Far East, seriously damaged the region's economy. In August 2000 a fire at the main television tower in Moscow disrupted television and radio broadcasting, as well as the operation of mobile telephones for several weeks. Roads throughout Russia are in poor condition, and most of them do not meet minimum quality standards. The federal government is actively examining plans to reorganize the country's system of rail, power, and telephone lines. Any such reorganization may lead to higher prices and tariffs for rail transport, electricity, and telephone services in combination with the impossibility of obtaining the expected volume of capital investments needed for repairs, maintenance, and modernization of these systems.

The deterioration of Russia's infrastructure is harming the country's economy, leading to disruption in deliveries of goods and services and higher costs of doing business in Russia, and may result in a disruption of commercial operations, which could materially and adversely affect the operations of the Issuer and WBD Group.

In the past, Russia has received substantial financing from several foreign governments and international organizations, including the International Monetary Fund (IMF). After the events of August 17, 1998, the IMF halted lending to Russia. Moreover, in January 2001 the Russian government missed payments on Soviet-era debt to the Paris Club of official creditors, although Russia subsequently resumed payment of the entire amount to the Paris Club. If the IMF does not provide financing in the future or an agreement is not reached with the Paris Club, the Russian government may not receive further financial support from other international organizations and foreign states and may find itself unable to pay its debts. Furthermore, the Russian government was unable to raise funds on international capital markets after July 1998 and probably is unable to do so in the near future. The amount of foreign debt that must be paid by the Russian government in 2003 may prove substantial, which will contribute to greater risk of default by the Russian government in the future.

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

The inability of the Russian government to obtain financing from the IMF and other international financial organizations, as well as its inability to venture onto international capital markets, may lead to direct or indirect monetary financing of the budget deficit, which will create pressure on inflation and the value of the ruble, which, in turn, may have a significant adverse effect on the operations of the Issuer and WBD Group and the value of foreign investments in Russia.

The instability of the world economy may adversely affect the state of the Russian economy and the activities of our company.

The Russian economy is affected by the decline in the world market and slump in business activity in other countries. As has already happened in the past, financial problems or the appearance of new risks associated with investments in developing countries may result in a lower volume of foreign investments in Russia. Furthermore, because Russia produces and exports large volumes of oil, the price of oil on the world market has a special influence on the Russian economy, and a decline in oil prices may hamper development of the Russian economy or lead to its disruption. The existence of the aforesaid factors may materially restrict our company's access to sources of financing and may adversely affect the purchasing ability of our clients and the activities of WBD Group as a whole.

Social risks

Crime and corruption may deprive the Issuer and WBD Group of the ability to render services to clients and carry out economic activity at the highest level, which may have a substantial adverse impact on the financial condition and results of both the Issuer and WBD Group as a whole.

The political and economic changes that have taken place in Russia since the beginning of the 1990s led to a weakening of law and order in society and an increase in criminal offences. Significant growth of organized crime, particularly in the major capital centers, has been seen. The number of crimes against property rose substantially in major centers. In addition, articles in the Russian and international press report a high level of corruption among state employees in Russia and other CIS countries, including bribing public officials to have criminal proceedings launched by state authorities. Also described in the press are instances of involvement of state employees in individual investigations and court actions aiming to support the interests of the government and individual officials. Furthermore, the appearance of such reports in the press attest that many Russian mass media periodically publish tendentious articles for monetary gain. Illegal activity, corruption, or fabrications concerning the involvement of our company in illegal activity may adversely affect the operations of the Issuer and WBD group.

Social instability may lead to increased popularity among the population of the idea of restoration of centralized power, nationalism, and violence, and thereby materially influence the effectiveness of our company's activities.

The inability of state enterprises and many private enterprises to pay wages regularly, and the discrepancy between the level of wages and monetary benefits as a whole to the rapid rise in the cost of living has led, and may lead in the future, to disturbances in the system of employment and public relations. For example, in 1998, miners in several regions of Russia went on strike demanding payment of wage arrears. As a result, traffic was halted on some major rail routes. Disturbances of this kind in the system of employment and public relations may have political, social, and economic consequences, for example, an increase in the popularity of the idea of a return to centralized power, a rise in nationalistic tendencies with restriction of the participation of foreign capital in Russia's economy, and an outburst of violence. Any of these factors may lead to small scales of activity of our company and lower sales income, thereby having a significant adverse effect on the activities of WBD.

Technical risks

Technical risks consists of risks associated with the operations of the Issuer or WBD Group and external risks.

Risks associated with the operations of the Issuer or WBD Group are minimal, considering that operations are conducted on the latest equipment of both Russian and foreign manufacture.

The activities of the Issuer or WBD Group may be affected by failures caused by third parties (for example, breakdowns in transportation routes may result in losses to the Issuer or WBD Group).

Environmental risks

Environmental risks are also determined by two factors: the activities of the Issuer or WBD Group and external influences. The specific nature of the activities of the Issuer and the production and trade enterprises of WBD Group (activity not associated with dangerous production) permit the conclusion that so-called internal environmental risks are insignificant.

Without question, there are real environmental risks not associated with the activities of the Issuer or WBD group.

The existence of harmful factories, nuclear power plants, etc. in the Russian Federation means that one must allow the possibility of a technogenic accident that will to some extent affect the activities of the Issuer or WBD Group (or individual enterprises in the group) located in the immediate vicinity of the accident.

Land and natural resources (water, subsoil, and other natural resources) owned by the plant and capital investments into leased fixed assets are accounted as fixed assets.

8.3. Fixed assets are accounted in the enterprise in accordance with PBU 6/01, Accounting of Fixed Assets, approved by RF Ministry of Finance Order No. 26n of March 30, 2001 (as amended), the Methodological Instructions on Accounting of Fixed Assets approved by RF Ministry of Finance Order No. 33n of July 20, 1998 (as amended), and other regulatory acts.

Fixed assets are accepted for the purpose of accounting at their initial value, i.e., the amount of actual expenses for their acquisition, construction, and production, not including the value-added tax and other applicable taxes (except in the cases provided by the legislation of the Russian Federation). Actual expenses for acquisition, construction, and production of fixed assets are:

1. amounts payable to the supplier (seller) in accordance with a contract;
2. amounts payable to organizations for completion of work under construction subcontract agreements and other contracts;
3. amounts payable to organizations for informational and consulting services associated with the acquisition of fixed assets;
4. registration fees, government duties, and other similar payments made in connection with the acquisition (obtainment) of rights to a fixed asset item;
5. customs duties;
6. unrecoverable taxes paid in connection with the acquisition of a fixed asset item;

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

7. fees payable to an intermediary organization through which a fixed asset item was purchased;

8. other expenses directly associated with the acquisition, construction, and production of a fixed asset item in particular, interest on borrowed funds that accrued prior to the acceptance of a fixed asset item for accounting, if the funds are borrowed for the purpose of acquiring, constructing, or producing the item.

8.4. Actual expenses for acquisition and construction of fixed asset items are determined taking into account exchange-rate differences that arise before the assets are accepted for accounting to account 01 (put into operation) in cases of payment in rubles of amounts denominated in a foreign currency (conventional monetary units). Exchange-rate differences that arise after the assets are accepted for accounting to account 01 (put into operation) are reflected as non-operating expenses (income) on account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

8.5. The initial value of fixed assets paid into the organization's charter capital is measured as their cash value as approved by the plant's founders (participants), unless otherwise provided by current legislation of the Russian Federation.

8.6. The initial value of fixed assets acquired in exchange for property other than cash is determined with reference to the value usually assigned to similar goods (assets) by the organization in comparable circumstances.

8.7. The value at which fixed assets were accepted for the purpose of accounting is not subject to change except in the cases established by legislation of the Russian Federation.

A change in the initial value of fixed assets is permitted in cases of additions, betterments, reconstruction, and partial liquidation of fixed asset items.

8.8. Revaluation of fixed assets is done in accordance with current legislation of the Russian Federation no more than once a year.

An increase in the carrying amount of a fixed asset item as a result of revaluation is debited to account 01, Fixed Assets, and credited to account 83, Revaluation Surplus. A revaluation increase equal to decreases made in preceding reporting periods and debited to account 91, Organization's Expenses, as a non-sales expense is credited to account 91, Organization's Income, as non-operating income.

A revaluation decrease in the carrying amount of a fixed asset item is assigned to the other income and expenses account (acct. 91).

A revaluation decrease in the carrying amount of a fixed asset item is charged against the revaluation surplus formed from revaluation increases of the same item made in preceding reporting periods. The excess of a revaluation decrease over the revaluation increase credited to the revaluation surplus in previous periods is recognized as a non-sales expense in the other income and expenses account (acct. 91).

When a fixed asset item is disposed of, the amount of its revaluation increase is transferred from the organization's revaluation surplus as non-operating income to the other income and expenses account (acct. 91).

8.9. The value of the organization's fixed assets is recovered through depreciation. Depreciation rates are calculated on the basis of the maximum useful life of fixed assets as defined in the classification of fixed assets. The classification of fixed assets included in depreciation groups was approved by Russian Federation Government Decree No. 1 of January 1, 2002, On Classification of Fixed Assets Included in Depreciation Groups.

The straight-line method of depreciation is used at the plant.

8.10. Wear and tear (depreciation) with respect to production-related fixed assets is reflected in the accounting records by a credit to account 02 in correspondence with expense accounts for production and distribution costs, and with respect to fixed assets leased out under a current lease and non-production-related fixed assets, to the sources of financing.

8.11. Fixed asset items with a unit value of 2,000 rubles or less are charged as production costs (selling costs) by 100% depreciation as they are issued to production or operation (debit to accounts 26, 44, and 91, for non-production-related fixed assets, credit to account 02). Books, booklets, and other similar publications are charged as production costs (selling costs) as they are released into operation.

8.12. Previously used fixed assets are depreciated on the basis of their actual time of use and expected useful life. The expected useful life is calculated as the difference between the useful life calculated for new items and the period of actual use.

In accordance with current legislation, the following items are not depreciated:

fixed asset items whose consumer attributes do not change over time (housing facilities (houses, hostels, apartments, etc.));

assets laid up in accordance with the established procedure;

land improvements;

road facilities;

perennial plants that have not reached production age;

land and natural resources.

8.13. The recognition of depreciation charges for a fixed assets item may not be suspended during its useful life unless by decision of the director of the plant it is either laid up for a period of more than three months or transferred into restoration period lasting more than 12 months.

After the end of reconstruction, re-equipment, or modernization, the corresponding costs may increase the initial value of the item if its initial performance is improved by the modernization; in the month following the month in which an increase in value took place, depreciation proceeds on the basis of the restored value of the item, but without an increase in the initially established depreciation period.

8.14. For the purpose of accounting for disposal of fixed assets (sale, write-off, partial liquidation, etc.), a subaccount, Disposal of Fixed Assets, is provided under account 01, Fixed Assets. The value of a disposed fixed asset item is debited to this subaccount, while accumulated depreciation is credited to account 02, Amortization of Fixed Assets. The residual value of a disposed fixed asset is charged as a credit against account 01 and debited to account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

8.15. Costs for all types of repairs (current, medium-term, and capital) of fixed production assets are included in the cost price of products according to the respective cost components without formation of a repair fund.

9. Intangible assets

9.1. Intangible assets are accounted in accordance with Accounting Regulation PBU 14/2000, approved by RF Ministry of Finance Order No. 91n of October 16, 2000.

Assets meeting the following criteria are deemed intangible:

lack of a material (physical) structure, possibility of identification (isolation, separation) of the asset from other property, use in the production of products, in the performance [of work], or the rendering of services, or for administrative needs of the organization, long-term use (i.e., with a useful life exceeding 12 months), ability to bring future economic benefits (income) to the organization;

availability of properly executed documents that confirm the existence of the asset itself and the organization's exclusive right to the results of intellectual activity (patents, certificates, other documents of title, etc.).

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

The following works of intellectual property (exclusive right to the results of intellectual activity) are deemed intangible assets:

a patentee's exclusive right to an invention, industrial design, or model; exclusive copyright in computer programs and databases;

an owner's exclusive right in a trademark;

property right of an author or other right holder in an integrated circuit topography;

goodwill of the organization;

start-up costs (expenses associated with the formation of a legal entity, recognized in accordance with the foundation documents as a part of the contribution of participants to the charter (reserve) capital).

9.2. Intangible assets are reflected in accounting records and reports in the amount of the actual expenses for acquisition, creation, and production, as well as expenses for preparing them for their intended use.

The initial value of intangible assets received as a contribution to the charter capital is based on a cash value agreed upon by the founders (participants) of the organization, unless otherwise provided by law.

The carrying amount of intangible assets is not subject to change from the initially recorded value, except in the cases established by RF legislation.

9.3. Intangible assets are initially recognized in accounting records as a debit to account 04 in correspondence with account 08.

9.4. Intangible assets are amortized at the plant by the straight-line method, on the basis of the initial value of the assets and amortization rates calculated on the basis of the useful life of the item.

9.5. The useful life of intangible assets is determined by the organization at the time the item is initially recognized in accounting records. If the useful life of an intangible asset cannot be determined, amortization rates are based on a twenty-year amortization period (however, the amortization period cannot exceed the life of the plant).

9.6. Amortization charges on intangible assets are recognized as credits to account 05 in correspondence with expense accounts for production costs. Amortization charges on intangible assets not used during the reporting period are credited to account 05 in correspondence with account 97.

9.7. When intangible assets are derecognized, their value recorded in account 04, Intangible Assets, is reduced by the amount of accumulated amortization (with a debit to account 05, Amortization of Intangible Assets). The residual value is credited to account 04 and debited to account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

10. Acquisition, preparation, and recording of inventories and their writedown.

10.1. Production inventories are accounted on the basis of Accounting Regulation PBU 5/01, Accounting of Inventories, approved by RF Ministry of Finance Order No. 44n of June 9, 2001.

Inventories include:

raw materials and consumables used in production, intended for sale, and used for management needs;

finished products (for accounting of release of finished products see section 13);

goods.

10.2. Production inventories and goods are reflected in accounting records and reports at actual cost price.

10.3. Actual cost price is determined on the basis of costs for their acquisition:

1) amounts payable to the seller in accordance with a contract, excluding the value-added tax and other applicable taxes;

2) amounts payable to organizations for informational and consulting

3) [sic] services associated with the acquisition of inventories;

4) customs duties;

5) expenses related to procurement and transportation of inventories to the place of use thereof, including insurance costs;

6) fees payable to an intermediary organization through which the inventories were purchased;

7) unrecoverable taxes paid in connection with acquisition of production inventories;

8) other costs directly associated with acquisition.

10.4. Actual costs for acquisition of inventories are determined taking into account exchange-rate differences arising before inventories are accepted for accounting, in cases of payment in rubles of amounts denominated in a foreign currency (conventional monetary units). Exchange-rate differences that arise after inventories are accepted for accounting are reflected as non-operating expenses (income) on account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

10.5. The cost price of production inventories and goods also includes costs for packaging. If the cost of packaging accepted from suppliers with production inventories is included in their price, then, if necessary, the cost of packaging will be excluded from total expenses at its price of possible use.

10.6. The actual cost price of inventories received under contracts provided for performance of obligations (payment) in money is deemed to be the value of the assets transferred or to be transferred by the plant. The value of assets transferred or to be transferred by the plant is determined on the basis of the price at which the plant determines the value of similar assets. If this value cannot be established, the value of received inventories is determined based on the price of acquiring similar materials.

10.7. The actual cost price at which inventories are accepted for accounting is not subject to change, except in the cases established by legislation of the Russian Federation.

10.8 When material resources are charged off to production or otherwise disposed of, their actual cost price is determined according to the average cost price per unit of each type.

10.9. When materials are disposed of (sale, write-off, gratuitous assignment, etc.), their value is debited to account 91, Other Income and Expenses, and credited to account 10, Materials.

11. Accounting of production costs and distribution of expenses

11.1. For the purpose of accounting for the plant's production costs relating to ordinary activities, the chart of accounts provides accounts 20 and 26.

11.2. Accounting records of costs for production of products and services are maintained pursuant to the prescribed method.

11.3. Direct costs of the plant are accumulated during the month in account 20, Primary Production, according to cost components.

11.4. General (administrative) expenses are accumulated in account 26, Administrative Expenses.

11.5. General (administrative) expenses are distributed among types of activity in proportion to revenue from sale of products (work, services) received from the different types of activity.

Edgar Filing: WIMM BILL DANN FOODS OJSC - Form 6-K

General (administrative) expenses are charged to sold products (debited to account 90) at the end of the reporting period. The basis for distribution of these expenses to individual types of activity is the gross income from sales excluding taxes, calculated from the prices of sale.

For trade activity, gross revenue is defined as the difference between received income and the cost of the goods sold.

12. Production in progress and deferred expenses.

12.1. Products (work) that have not passed through all stages contemplated by the manufacturing process, as well as products that have not undergone quality control, are categorized as production in progress.

12.2. Production in progress is reflected on the balance sheet in the amount of direct costs.

12.3. Expenses incurred in a reporting period but relating to subsequent reporting periods are reflected in reports on a separate line-item as deferred expenses and are assigned to production and distribution costs (or to corresponding sources of the plant's funds) in the period to which they related.

Licenses to engage in certain types of activity that are discharged during the period of validity of the license are recorded as deferred expenses.

14. [sic] Other operating income and expenses

14.1 Other income and expenses of the organization are recognized in accounting records in accordance with accounting regulations PBU 9/99 and PBU 10/99 and reflected on account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

15. Capital and reserves

15.1. The charter capital is recognized in accounting records as the amount recorded in the organization's foundation documents as the totality of contributions (interests, shares at par value, share contributions) of the founders (participants) of the organization.

15.2. Duly conducted revaluation increases of the plant's non-current assets are recorded as revaluation surplus.

15.3. Assets received gratuitously, including under a contract of donation, are recorded as deferred income and reflected as a credit to account 98, Deferred Income, in correspondence with account 08, Investments in non-current assets. Depreciation of gratuitously received fixed assets is credited to account 02, Amortization of Fixed Assets, in correspondence with accounts for production expenses and distribution costs. Simultaneously with depreciation, amounts recorded on account 98 in respect of gratuitously received assets are credited to account 91, Other income and expenses, thereby increasing the taxable profit base.

15.4. The plant may create the following reserves:

Provisions for doubtful debts (account 63). An entry for the amount of the created reserve is made as a debit to account 91, Other Income and Expenses, and a credit to account 63, Provisions for Doubtful Debts. The merger of unused amounts of the reserves for doubtful debts with profits of the reporting period following the period in which they were created is reflected by a debit to account 63 and a credit to account 91.

Provisions for devaluation of investments in securities (account 59). In case of an increase in the market value of securities for which the corresponding reserves were created earlier, a debit entry is made to account 59, Provisions for Devaluation of Investments in Securities, and a credit entry is made to account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

Provisions for devaluation of tangible assets (account 14). Formation of a reserve against devaluation of material assets is reflected as a debit to account 14, Provisions for Devaluation of Tangible Assets, and a credit to account 91, Other Income and Expenses. The reserved amount is restored at the beginning of the period following the period in which the entry was made, by a debit to account 14 and a credit to account 91.

Provisions for expenses and payments (account 96) for uniform inclusion of costs in the cost price of products. Reservation of the funds is reflected by a credit to account 96, Provisions for Expenses, in correspondence with accounts for production costs and selling costs.

Reserve capital for coverage of losses and other obligations of the organization in respect of its own securities. The reserve capital is formed from net profits remaining at the disposal of the enterprise, by debit to account 84, Undistributed Profit (Uncovered Losses), and credit to account 82, Reserve Capital. Use of the reserve fund is reflected by debit to account 82 and credit to account 84 for reserve capital amounts used to cover losses, and by credit to accounts 66 and 67 for amounts used to redeem bonds of the organization.

17. [sic] Accounting of profit (loss), funds, and use of profits

17.1. Profit (loss) represents the final financial results (profit or loss) identified for the reporting period on the basis of accounting of all business operations of the plant and is reflected an account 99, Profits and losses.

The final financial result is formed from the financial outcome of ordinary activities, as well as other income and expenses, including extraordinary income and expenses. A loss (losses and expenses) is reflected as a debit, and a profit (income) as a credit, to account 99.

17.2. At the end of the accounting year, in the preparation of the financial statements, account 99, Profits and Losses, is closed with a final December entry credited (or debited) to account 84, Undistributed Profit (Uncovered Losses) of the Reporting Year.

17.3. Profits or losses identified in the reporting year but relating to operations of past years are included in the financial results of the reporting year.

17.4. Income received in the reporting year but relating to subsequent reporting periods is reflected in accounting records and reports as a separate line in account 98, Deferred Income. Such income is subsequently assigned to financial results upon the occurrence of accounting period to which it relates.

17.5. Profits remaining at the disposal of the enterprise are distributed in accordance with a resolution of the meeting of shareholders.

18. Accounting of exchange-rate adjustments and differences

18.1. Positive and negative adjustments occasioned by changes in the official rate of foreign currencies to the Russian ruble during the reporting year are recorded as non-operating income and expenses on account 91, Other Income and Expenses.

17.2. Exchange-rate differences arising in the reflection of income (revenue) in the same reporting period as the one in which the revenue was reflected are recorded as income.

17.3. When exchange-rate differences arise in a period following that in which the income (revenue) was reflected, they credited to account 91, Other Income and Expenses, as non-operating income.

18.4. Exchange-rate differences arising in conjunction with the purchase of services in the same reporting period in which the services were purchased are included in the cost of the services.

18.5. When exchange-rate differences arise in a period following that in which receipt of the materials was reflected, they are debited to account 91, Other Income and Expenses, as non-operating expenses.

19. Appraisal of debt in respect of received loans

19.1. Debt in respect of received loans (other than interest-free and state loans) is accounted at the plant in accordance with Accounting Regulation PBU 15/01, Accounting of Loans and Credits and Costs of Their Maintenance, approved by RF Ministry of Finance Order No. 60n of August 2, 2001.

19.2. The plant's obligations to banks and other organizations are recognized in accounting records including the interest charged on the obligations. Interest is reflected in accounting records in accordance with PBU 15/01. Charged interest amounts and overdue credits and loans are recorded separately.

20. Changes in accounting policy

20.1. This accounting policy was developed in 2001 and enters into effect from 2002 for an indefinite period.

20.2. In accordance with article 6.4 of the Law on Accounting, accounting policy may be changed in cases of:

reorganization of the enterprise;

replacement of owners of the enterprise;

changes in the regulatory framework or legislation relating to accounting;

development of new methods of maintenance of accounting records (by the Ministry of Finance or by the enterprise itself);

a new substantial change in the conditions of activity of the enterprise.

For the sake of comparability of data, all changes in accounting policy are made from the beginning of a new fiscal year. Exceptions may be made when regulatory acts relating to accounting introduce new rules with retroactive force.

20.3. In the event of a change in the types of activity carried out by the enterprise, and in cases when the enterprise acquires new accounting sections, new separate divisions, etc., changes may be made to the accounting policy.
