Frequently Asked Investor Questions

Q: Why is Albertsons the right partner for Rite Aid?

A: The merger with Albertsons accelerates Rite Aid's strategic and financial transformation, significantly enhancing our scale and diversification and improving our growth prospects, financial strength and ability to deliver compelling long-term value in the face of the rapidly evolving retail healthcare landscape.

Together with Albertsons, we will be uniquely positioned to deliver value for shareholders and customers based on the key attributes of the combined entity summarized below:

- Differentiated leader in Food, Health and Wellness with expected ~$83 billion in revenues and 40+ million customers per week
- Best-in-class omni-channel retail experience, strong loyalty program and compelling technology capabilities to build strong customer relationships
- Increased local-market scale to better compete in markets where scale matters, with highly recognizable brands
- Strengthened presence in key existing markets with #1 or #2 position in 66% of combined metropolitan markets
- Substantial merger synergies and revenue opportunities, strong and diversified cash flow, reduced leverage and attractive growth outlook

Q: How did Rite Aid arrive at the decision to merge with Albertsons? Is it possible that another buyer will emerge?

A: The decision to merge with Albertsons followed a series of robust discussions that Rite Aid's Board and management team have engaged in over the past several years, including certain discussions with an extensive list of third parties, around a range of strategic options for Rite Aid. These strategic options included a potential sale of EnvisionRxOptions, Rite Aid's pharmacy benefit manager, and remaining a stand-alone company.

After careful review by the full Board, Rite Aid determined a transaction with Albertsons delivers superior value and greater certainty than other alternatives. We thoroughly analyzed the growth and value creation opportunity presented by the proposed combination with Albertsons against the expected value creation opportunities of other alternatives. Taking all of this into account, a Board subcommittee that excluded our Chairman and CEO negotiated certain of the financial terms of the Albertsons merger within a framework established, reviewed and monitored by the Board, and the full Board actively directed and oversaw the negotiations and unanimously approved the transaction. We are confident that this merger with Albertsons is the best option for Rite Aid shareholders.

With regard to the possibility of another third party emerging with an alternative transaction, we can't speculate on the actions of others, but no proposals have been received since the merger agreement with Albertsons was announced. We believe that the $65 million break-up fee, payable in the event of a superior transaction pursuant to the merger agreement, is not a significant impediment to potential interested third parties.

Q: Why is now the right time for a merger with Albertsons?

A: Rite Aid has worked hard to defend and improve its competitive position in the face of a range of industry headwinds including increased competition, drug reimbursement rate pressure, and market consolidation. This merger accelerates Rite Aid's efforts to better leverage our existing competitive advantages and create new ones by transforming the business strategically and financially and providing shareholders with the opportunity to realize significant value anticipated from the combination. In a time of unprecedented disruption across the retail healthcare environment, Rite Aid and Albertsons together create a top-five food and drug retailer with improved scale, a more diversified business and a stronger market position to compete more effectively today, and over the long-term.

Q: Does Albertsons have a track record of performance which makes them a good partner for Rite Aid?

A: Albertsons has demonstrated outstanding growth over the past five years, having grown from just 192 stores with revenue of $4 billion in fiscal 2012(1) to 2,318 stores with revenue of $60 billion in fiscal 2017. While difficult industry conditions prevailed in much of fiscal 2017, with unprecedented deflation and heightened competitive promotional activity, this has largely since abated. Albertsons has rebounded with solid year-over-year improvements in sales and EBITDA results in the past two quarters. In the first quarter of fiscal 2018, Albertsons exceeded its internal expectations, and is on track to achieve its adjusted EBITDA guidance for fiscal 2018 of $2.7 billion. (2)

Albertsons' performance is a product of the company's efforts to enhance the customer experience through investments in the omni-channel platform, improving digital marketing, loyalty and e-commerce efforts, strengthening their innovative Own Brands portfolio, as well as successful execution of their cost reduction efforts.

As shareholders of approximately 30% of the combined company, Rite Aid shareholders are poised to benefit from Albertsons' strong financial momentum in addition to the other compelling strategic and financial benefits of the transaction.

Shareholders Will Benefit from Albertsons' Financial Momentum

	Year-Over-Year Change
	Q4 2017	Q1 2018
Identical Store Sales(3)	0.6%	0.2%
Adjusted EBITDA	$25MM	$44MM

Q: Rite Aid just delevered – won't this transaction increase the company's leverage?

A: The transaction results in a lower leverage ratio on a combined basis, including synergies, and a clear path to further leverage reductions in the future. The annual adjusted EBITDA for the combined company is estimated to be $3.7 billion including synergies,(4) which implies a leverage ratio of 3.8x – lower than Rite Aid's current standalone leverage ratio of 4.8x. Importantly, based on the stronger and more diversified free cash flow of the combined business, we expect to reduce leverage to less than 2.75x within 36 months of closing while also continuing to invest in the business.

Combination Results in Lower Leverage(5)

	Leverage Ratio
Rite Aid Standalone	4.8x
Pro Forma	3.8x
Pro Forma in 36 Months	<2.75x

Q: What will I receive for my Rite Aid shares as a result of the transaction?

A: Upon closing, Rite Aid shareholders will own ~30% of a larger, stronger company that is better positioned to accelerate Rite Aid's transformation. This ~30% ownership stake results from a carefully considered and thoughtfully negotiated exchange ratio at which Rite Aid shares will convert to shares (or shares and cash if shareholders elect that option) in the combined company. Specifically, under the terms of the agreement, for every 10 Rite Aid shares, Rite Aid stockholders will have the right to elect to receive either one share of Albertsons stock plus $1.832 in cash or 1.079 shares of Albertsons.

In addition to the equity share in the combined company, Rite Aid shareholders will have the opportunity to realize potential upside value estimated to be $650 million based on the $375 million in cost synergies expected to be realized from the transaction.
