Item 1.01. Conflict Minerals Disclosure and Report

Rock-Tenn Company (the “Company” or “us”) is filing this Form SD for calendar year 2014 in accordance with Rule 13p-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

Conflict Minerals Disclosure

The Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 and rules promulgated thereunder by the Securities and Exchange Commission impose certain reporting obligations on public companies that manufacture or contract to manufacture products containing columbite-tantalite (coltan), cassiterite, gold, wolframite, or their derivatives, tantalum, tin and tungsten (“Conflict Minerals”) that may have originated from the Democratic Republic of the Congo or an adjoining country, as defined by paragraph (d)(1) of Item 1.01 of Form SD (“Covered Countries”). Under these rules, if any Conflict Minerals are necessary to the functionality or production of a product manufactured by us or contracted by us to be manufactured and are required to be reported in the calendar year covered by this Form SD, we must conduct in good faith a reasonable country of origin inquiry regarding those Conflict Minerals that is reasonably designed to determine whether (a) any Conflict Minerals originated in the Covered Countries or (b) are from recycled or scrap sources, as defined by paragraph (d)(6) of Item 1.01 of Form SD.

Certain products manufactured by the Company or its subsidiaries during calendar year 2014 contained tin, gold, tantalum and tungsten, which were necessary to the functionality or production of those products. Specifically, a folding carton product manufactured by us to hold and dispense plastic wrap included a metal cutting edge component that contained tin. We also manufactured permanent displays that included components such as lighting fixtures, power sources and audio and video components that contained one or more of the Conflict Minerals.

We have determined after a good faith reasonable country of origin inquiry that none of the Conflict Minerals contained in products manufactured by the Company during calendar year 2014 originated in the Covered Countries. As part of our reasonable country of origin inquiry for calendar year 2014, we required that all of our new vendors that had not completed questionnaires for calendar year 2013 or vendors that were supplying new products to us to complete detailed questionnaires regarding the inclusion of Conflict Minerals in the products that the vendors supplied to the Company. We also required a representative sample of current vendors who had completed our questionnaires for calendar year 2013 to complete new questionnaires. These questionnaires were the same as the questionnaires our vendors completed for calendar year 2013. We received responses from all of our surveyed vendors. In the event the responses to those questionnaires indicated that there were any Conflict Minerals contained in a vendor’s products sold to us, we followed up with such vendor via email or through phone calls to find out whether those Conflict Minerals originated in one of the Covered Countries. In response to our follow-up inquiries, none of the vendors identified as supplying us with products containing Conflict Minerals indicated that the Conflict Minerals found in their products came from the Covered Countries, and we have no reason to believe that any Conflict Minerals contained in products manufactured by us originated in the Democratic Republic of Congo or any adjoining country.
