Gold Fields Limited in breach of confidentiality agreement

Harmony has received several enquiries from the media regarding a document prepared by HSBC Bank plc (HSBC) in August 2004. Harmony understands that this and other documents were provided to the media by Edward Nathan & Friedland (Proprietary) Limited (ENF), legal advisers to Gold Fields, on the evening of Friday, 12 November 2004.

It should be noted that the release of these documents to the media by Gold Fields Limited (Gold Fields) and its advisors represents a breach of the confidentiality agreement under which these documents were provided to ENF and a breach of the basis on which the documents could be used by Gold Fields: that is to say, for the purposes of the Competition Tribunal and not for their distribution to the media.

The document refers to a possible transaction between Harmony, Gold Fields and JSC MMC Norilsk Nickel (Norilsk) which would involve the separation of the companies respective South African and international assets into two separate entities.

Edgar Filing: GOLD FIELDS LTD - Form 425

Harmony, in common with all major corporations, regularly receives unsolicited proposals of this kind from investment banks. In recent months, and particularly after the announcement of the acquisition by Norilsk of Anglo American's stake in Gold Fields, Harmony received various proposals regarding, inter alia, a proposed takeover of Gold Fields from a number of investment banks including, J.P. Morgan plc (J.P. Morgan), Investec Bank Limited (Investec) and HSBC.

It should be noted that the JP Morgan proposal was submitted after it had been appointed as adviser to Gold Fields.

Harmony has not implemented, and does not plan to implement, any of the ideas submitted by J.P. Morgan, Investec or HSBC in this period but has developed its own strategy which it is now pursuing.

Harmony believes its own strategy is a unique opportunity for Gold Fields shareholders, creating the world's largest gold mining company by reserves and production.
