Nektar to Acquire Aerogen to Broaden Pulmonary Technology Base and Strengthen Capabilities for Treatment in the Acute Care Setting

San Carlos, Calif. & Mountain View, Calif

August 15, 2005

Nektar Therapeutics (Nasdaq:NKTR) and Aerogen, Inc. (Pink Sheets:AEGN.PK) announced today that they have signed a definitive merger agreement whereby Nektar will acquire Aerogen in a transaction valued at approximately $32 million.

The acquisition of Aerogen broadens Nektar's pulmonary delivery capabilities by adding advanced inhaleable liquid drug technology to Nektar's base of leading inhaleable powdered drug technology, said Ajit S. Gill, Nektar president and chief executive officer. Over the last ten years, Aerogen has built the capabilities for treatment of acute care pulmonary conditions, an area of interest for us for proprietary products. The addition of Aerogen's technology, people, products, programs, and intellectual property with a patent portfolio of more than 35 patents will extend the range of inhaleable proprietary opportunities for Nektar. We plan to provide greater detail on the Aerogen acquisition and how it fits with our proprietary products program at our investor meeting on September 29, 2005.

Aerogen develops products based on its OnQ® Aerosol Generator technology to improve the treatment of respiratory disorders in the acute care setting. Nektar enables high-value, differentiated therapeutics with its industry-leading drug delivery technologies, including inhaleable powdered drugs for treating systemic and local lung indications.

We believe this transaction is in the best interests of our stockholders, customers and patients, said John C. Hodgman, Aerogen president and chief executive officer. As a leader in advanced inhaleable powdered drug products, Nektar has an understanding of the value and potential of Aerogen's advanced inhaleable liquid capabilities. Aerogen technology and expertise will facilitate the development of certain product opportunities that best lend themselves to an inhaleable liquid delivery system.

Terms of the Agreement

Edgar Filing: AEROGEN INC - Form 425

The transaction is structured as a cash and stock transaction, with Nektar providing approximately $8 million in cash and approximately $24 million in stock with the option of paying all in cash as described below.

Under the terms of the agreement, and upon completion of the acquisition, each share of common stock will be exchanged for a total of approximately $0.75 per common share, comprising either $0.1875 in cash, and approximately $0.5625 per common share in Nektar common stock (valued based on the volume-weighted average price of Nektar common stock during the twenty trading days ended two days prior to the completion of the acquisition) or all cash as discussed below. Also upon completion of the acquisition, each share of Aerogen A-1 preferred stock will be exchanged for a total of approximately $29.0251 per A-1 Preferred share, comprising either $7.2563 in cash, and approximately $21.7688 in Nektar common stock (valued as described above), or all cash.

At any time prior to September 15, 2005, Nektar may, at its sole discretion, elect to pay the entire consideration in cash, resulting in payments to Aerogen stockholders of approximately $0.75 in cash per common share and approximately $29.0251 in cash per A-1 Preferred share. It is anticipated that the merger will be treated as a taxable transaction. The premium over the average closing price per common share over the last 30 trading days is 50%.

The boards of directors of Nektar and Aerogen have approved the transaction, which is subject to Aerogen shareholders' approval and other customary closing conditions. The transaction is anticipated to be consummated sometime in the fourth quarter of this year. The transaction does not affect Nektar's previous guidance for year-end 2005 cash balance of greater than $270 million.
