Part I

ITEM 1 BUSINESS

General

Federated Investors, Inc., a Pennsylvania corporation, together with its consolidated subsidiaries (collectively, Federated or the Company), is a leading provider of investment management products and related financial services. Federated has been in the asset management business since 1955 and is one of the largest mutual fund managers in the United States with $237.4 billion in assets under management at December 31, 2006.

Federated sponsors, markets and provides investment-related services to various investment products, including mutual funds and Separate Accounts (which include separately managed accounts, institutional accounts and sub-advised funds, both variable annuity and other). Federated's principal source of revenue is investment advisory fee income earned by various subsidiaries of Federated pursuant to investment advisory contracts with the investment products. These subsidiaries are registered as investment advisers under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. Investment advisers are compensated for their services in the form of investment advisory fees based primarily upon the net assets of the fund or Separate Account.

Federated provided investment advisory services to 148 Federated-sponsored funds as of December 31, 2006. Federated markets these funds to banks, broker/dealers and other financial intermediaries who use them to meet the needs of their customers, including retail investors, corporations and retirement plans. The funds sponsored by Federated are domiciled in the U.S., with the exception of Federated International Funds Plc and Federated Unit Trust, which are domiciled in Dublin, Ireland. Most of Federated's U.S.-domiciled funds are registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (Investment Company Act) and under applicable federal and state laws. Each of the funds enters into an advisory agreement that is subject to annual approval by the fund directors or trustees, including a majority of the directors who are not interested persons of the funds or Federated as defined under the Investment Company Act. In general, amendments to such advisory agreements must be approved by the funds' shareholders. A significant portion of Federated's revenue is derived from these advisory agreements, which generally are terminable upon 60 days notice.

Of the 148 funds sponsored by Federated (the Federated Funds) as of December 31, 2006, Federated's investment advisory subsidiaries managed 51 money market funds (and cash equivalents) totaling $155.2 billion in assets, 48 fixed-income funds with $18.1 billion in assets and 49 equity funds with $28.7 billion in assets.

As of December 31, 2006, Federated provided investment advisory services to $35.4 billion in separate account assets. These separate accounts (together with the Federated Funds, Managed Assets) represented assets from high net worth individuals, government entities, pension and other employee benefit plans, corporations, trusts, foundations, endowments, mutual funds and other products sponsored by third parties. Fees for separate accounts are typically based on the value of assets under management pursuant to investment advisory agreements that may be terminated at any time.

Certain Federated Funds have adopted distribution plans that, subject to applicable law, provide for payment to Federated for marketing expenses, including sales commissions paid to broker/dealers. These distribution plans are implemented through a distribution agreement between Federated and each respective fund. Although the specific terms of each such agreement vary, the basic terms of the agreements are similar. Pursuant to the agreements, Federated acts as underwriter for the funds and distributes shares of the funds primarily through unaffiliated dealers. Each distribution plan and agreement is initially approved by the directors or trustees of the respective fund and is reviewed for approval annually.

Federated also provides a broad range of services to support the operation and administration of the Federated Funds. These services, for which Federated receives fees pursuant to agreements with the Federated Funds, include administrative services, shareholder servicing and general support.

In terms of revenue concentration by product, approximately 17% of Federated's total revenue for 2006 was derived from services provided to one sponsored fund (the Federated Kaufmann Fund). In addition, in terms of revenue concentration by customer, two intermediary customers (Edward D. Jones & Co. and the Bank of New York, including Pershing (a subsidiary of the Bank of New York)) accounted for a total of approximately 26% of Federated's total revenue for 2006. Although in both cases the majority of this revenue is dependent upon the level of assets under management in numerous individual fund shareholder accounts in multiple sponsored products, significant changes in Federated's relationship with these intermediary customers could have a significant adverse effect on Federated's future revenues and, to a lesser extent, net income.

Federated's revenues from domestic and foreign operations over the last three years were as follows:

Investment Products

Federated offers a wide range of products, including money market, equity and fixed-income investments. Federated's mix includes products that the Company expects to be in demand under a variety of economic and market conditions.

Federated is one of the largest U.S. managers of money market assets, with $173.6 billion in such assets under management at December 31, 2006. Federated has developed expertise in managing cash for institutions, which typically have stringent requirements for regulatory compliance, relative safety, liquidity and competitive yields. Federated has managed money market funds for over 30 years and began selling money market fund products to institutions in 1974. Federated also manages retail money market products that are typically distributed through broker/dealers. Federated manages money market assets in the following asset classes: government ($78.7 billion); prime corporate ($67.2 billion); and tax free ($27.7 billion).

In recent years, Federated has emphasized growth of its equity business as an important component of its growth strategy and has broadened its range of equity investment products. Equity assets total $40.9 billion at December 31, 2006 and are managed across a wide range of styles including small-mid cap growth ($12.2 billion); core equity ($9.1 billion); large-cap value ($5.4 billion); flexible ($4.3 billion); equity income ($3.2 billion); international/global ($2.2 billion); and mid-large cap growth ($1.1 billion). Federated also manages assets in equity index funds ($2.7 billion) and balanced and asset allocation funds ($0.7 billion). These asset allocation funds may include fixed-income assets.

Federated's fixed-income assets total $22.9 billion at December 31, 2006 and are managed in a wide range of sectors including multi-sector ($6.2 billion); mortgage-backed ($3.7 billion); municipal ($2.9 billion); U.S. corporate ($2.9 billion); high-yield ($2.6 billion); U.S. government ($2.6 billion); and international/global ($2.0 billion). Federated's fixed-income products offer fiduciaries and others a broad range of highly defined products designed to meet many of their investment needs.

Investment products are generally managed by a team of portfolio managers supported by fundamental and quantitative research analysts. Federated's proprietary, independent investment research process is centered on the integration of several fundamentals: quantitative research models, fundamental research and credit analysis, style-consistent and disciplined portfolio construction and management, portfolio attribution and trading.

Distribution Channels

Federated's distribution strategy is to provide products geared to financial intermediaries, primarily banks, broker/dealers, investment advisers and directly to institutions such as corporations and government entities. Through substantial investments in distribution for more than 50 years, Federated has developed relationships with 3,500 intermediaries and sells its products directly to another 1,800 corporations and government entities. Federated uses its trained sales force of approximately 167 representatives and managers to add new customer relationships and strengthen and expand existing relationships.

Product Markets

Federated's investment products are distributed in three principal markets: the wealth management and trust market, the broker/dealer market and the global institutional market. The following chart shows Federated Managed Assets by market for the dates indicated:

² Federated's market definitions changed as of January 1, 2006. Channels that had been included in the former Institutional market are now included in the Broker/Dealer and the Wealth Management & Trust markets. For further explanations of these changes and historical data, please see the Historical Assets under New Market Definition chart on the About Us page of FederatedInvestors.com.

Wealth Management & Trust, Global Capital Markets and Institutional Cash. Federated pioneered the concept of providing cash management to bank trust departments through money market mutual funds over 30 years ago. Today, wealth management professionals in bank trust departments and at registered investment advisory firms (RIAs) use a broad range of Federated's equity and fixed-income funds to invest the assets over which they have discretion. Federated also supports our clients' asset allocation programs through Federated's PRISM[®]eris, which is comprised of quarterly market outlooks, asset allocation models and online proposals for investors.

Money market funds contain the majority of Federated's Managed Assets in the wealth management channel. In allocating investments across various asset classes, investors typically maintain a portion of their portfolios in cash or cash equivalents, including money market funds, irrespective of trends in bond or stock prices. In addition, Federated offers an extensive menu of equity and fixed-income mutual funds and Separate Accounts structured for use in the wealth management and trust market. In addition to bank trust departments and RIAs, Federated provides products and services to capital markets clients (institutional brokerages generally within banks) and directly to cash management and treasury departments at major corporations and government entities. Assets from these clients totaled $36.5 billion, $35.9 billion of which was in money market assets as of December 31, 2006.

Federated employs dedicated sales forces backed by experienced support staffs to offer products and services to each of the above sub-categories of the wealth management and trust market. As of December 31, 2006, Managed Assets in this market included $92.8 billion in money market assets, $7.1 billion in fixed-income assets and $6.5 billion in equity assets.

Broker/Dealer Market. Federated distributes its products in this market through a large, diversified group of approximately 2,600 national, regional and independent broker/dealers and bank broker/dealers. Federated maintains sales staff dedicated to calling on broker/dealers, bank broker/dealers and insurance interests. Broker/dealers use Federated's products to meet the needs of their customers, who are typically retail investors. Federated offers products with a variety of commission structures that enable brokers to offer their customers a choice of pricing options. Federated also offers money market mutual funds as cash management products designed for use by its broker/dealer clients. As of December 31, 2006, Managed Assets in the broker/dealer market included $63.9 billion in money market assets, $29.3 billion in equity assets and $9.9 billion in fixed-income assets.

Global Institutional Market. Federated has structured its investment process to meet the requirements of fiduciaries and others who use Federated's products to meet the needs of their customers. Fiduciaries typically have stringent demands related to portfolio composition, risk and investment performance. Federated maintains a dedicated sales staff to focus on the distribution of its products to a wide variety of global institutional customers: corporations, corporate and public pension funds, government entities, foundations, endowments, hospitals, and non-Federated investment companies. Federated includes institutional assets gathered in the U.S. in this market, including two local government investment pools in the state of Texas ($16.0 billion). In addition, assets gathered from Federated's distribution to areas outside the U.S. through Federated International Management Ltd. and Federated Asset Management GmbH, a venture with LVM Insurance, are included in this market. As of December 31, 2006, Managed Assets in the global institutional market included $16.3 billion in money market assets, $3.2 billion in fixed-income assets and $1.3 billion in equity assets.

Other Markets. Other markets at December 31, 2006, included assets under management from the following sources: certain affinity groups and direct sales efforts including the retail assets associated with the Federated Kaufmann Fund ($2.9 billion); and collateralized debt obligation (CDO) products for which Federated acts as the investment adviser ($1.2 billion).

Competition

The investment management business is highly competitive. Competition is particularly intense among mutual fund providers. According to the Investment Company Institute, at the end of 2006, there were over 8,000 open-end mutual funds, of varying sizes and investment objectives, whose shares are currently being offered to the public both on a sales-load and no-sales-load basis. In addition to competition from other mutual fund managers and investment advisers, Federated and the mutual fund industry compete with investment alternatives offered by insurance companies, commercial banks, broker/dealers, other financial institutions and hedge funds.

Competition for sales of investment products is influenced by various factors including investment performance in terms of attaining the stated objectives of the particular products and in terms of fund yields and total returns, advertising and sales promotional efforts, investor confidence and type and quality of services.

Changes in the demand for mutual fund distribution and administrative services are expected to continue. In addition to competing with other service providers, banks sponsoring mutual funds may choose to internalize certain service functions. Consolidation within the banking industry also impacts Federated's fund administration revenue as merging bank funds typically choose a single fund administration provider. Due to the fact that Federated derives a smaller portion of its revenue from Administered Assets as compared to Managed Assets, changes in the amount of Administered Assets generally have less impact on Federated's results of operations than changes in Managed Assets.

Recent Acquisitions

In the fourth quarter 2006, assets of three mutual funds previously advised by Sentinel Asset Management, Inc. totaling approximately $73 million were acquired by three sponsored mutual funds.

In the third quarter 2006, Federated acquired MDTA LLC (MDTA) which, through its registered investment advisory division, MDT Advisers, oversaw approximately $6.7 billion in managed assets as of July 14, 2006. MDTA grew its business using quantitative investment techniques, having successfully developed a disciplined quantitative process to invest in equities. As a result of the acquisition, Federated has enhanced its product offerings by adding a quantitative line of equity mutual funds to complement Federated's existing equity mutual funds.

Table of Contents

In the first quarter 2006, assets of an equity mutual fund previously advised by Wayne Hummer Asset Management Company, a direct subsidiary of Wintrust Financial Corporation, totaling approximately $158 million were acquired by a sponsored mutual fund.

In the first quarter 2006, assets of an equity mutual fund previously advised by Mason Street Advisors, LLC, a wholly owned company of Northwestern Mutual, totaling approximately $218 million, were acquired by a sponsored mutual fund.

In the first quarter 2006, Federated purchased the non-controlling interest in Passport Research II, Ltd., a registered investment advisor organized as a limited partnership between an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Federated and Edward D. Jones & Co.

Federated continues to look for new alliances and acquisition opportunities.

Regulatory Matters

Substantially all aspects of Federated's business are subject to federal and state regulation and to the extent operations take place outside the United States, they are subject to the regulations of foreign countries. Depending upon the nature of any non-compliance, the results could include the suspension or revocation of licenses or registration, including broker/dealer licenses and registrations and transfer agent registrations, as well as the imposition of civil fines and penalties and in certain limited circumstances, prohibition from acting as an adviser to registered investment companies. Federated's advisory companies are registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and with certain states. All of the mutual funds managed, distributed, and administered by Federated are registered with the SEC under the Investment Company Act. Certain wholly owned subsidiaries of Federated are registered as broker/dealers with the SEC under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act") and with various states and are members of the National Association of Securities Dealers (the "NASD"). Their activities are regulated by the SEC, the NASD and the various states in which they are registered. These subsidiaries are required to meet capital requirements established by the SEC pursuant to the Exchange Act. Two other subsidiaries are registered with the SEC as transfer agents. One subsidiary is regulated by the New Jersey Department of Banking and Insurance. Amendments to current laws and regulations or newly promulgated laws and regulations governing Federated's operations, the compliance with which may require substantial resources, could have a material adverse impact on Federated.

The federal, state and foreign laws and regulations applicable to most aspects of Federated's business are primarily intended to benefit or protect Federated's customers and the funds' shareholders and generally grant supervisory agencies and bodies broad administrative powers, including the power to limit or restrict Federated from carrying on its business in the event that it fails to comply with such laws and regulations. In such event, the possible sanctions that may be imposed include the suspension of individual employees, limitations on engaging in certain lines of business for specified periods of time, revocation of broker/dealer licenses and registrations and transfer agent registrations, censure and fines.

For further details regarding recent regulatory matters, see Note (22) to the Consolidated Financial Statements incorporated by reference in Item 8 of Part II of this Form 10-K.

Employees

At December 31, 2006, Federated employed 1,243 persons. Federated considers its relationships with its employees to be satisfactory.

payments pursuant to acquisition agreements; the costs associated with the settlement with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the New York State Attorney General; legal proceedings; future cash needs; accounting for intangible assets; accounting for fair value measurements; accounting for income taxes; market risk of investments and revenue; the impact of Federated's reclassification within the Edward Jones brokerage firm; the impact of increased regulation; and the various items set forth under Risk Factors constitute forward-looking statements, which involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties, and other factors that may cause the actual results, levels of activity, performance or achievements of Federated or industry results, to be materially different from any future results, levels of activity, performance or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. Among others, Federated's risks and uncertainties include Federated's ability to successfully execute its distribution strategy; to successfully diversify its product mix; to identify and complete suitable acquisitions; and to take actions necessary to retain experienced money managers. The number of clients for fund administration services is subject to the decisions of the clients to internalize or change service providers and the impact of mergers in the banking industry and the costs associated with the settlement may vary based in part on net assets of certain funds and costs associated with compliance with the terms of the settlement. Federated's risks and uncertainties also include other regulatory inquiries, legal proceedings and future cash needs, which will be impacted by any additional information requests from or fines or penalties paid to governmental agencies; the cost associated with private litigation; and the costs to implement regulatory changes; the accounting for intangible assets and loss contingencies, which are based upon estimates and will be affected if actual results differ significantly; the accounting for fair value measurements; the accounting for income taxes; investments, which will be impacted by fluctuations in the securities markets; and revenue, which will be affected by changes in market values of assets under management; the impact of Federated's reclassification within the Edward Jones brokerage firm; and the impact of interest changes on money market and fixed-income funds. Many of these factors may be more likely to occur as a result of the ongoing threat of terrorism and the increased scrutiny of the mutual fund industry by federal and state regulators. As a result, no assurance can be given as to future results, levels of activity, performance or achievements, and neither Federated nor any other person assumes responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of such statements in the future.

ITEM 1A RISK FACTORS

Potential Adverse Effects of Increased Competition in the Investment Management Business. The investment management business is highly competitive. Federated competes in the distribution of mutual funds and Separate Accounts with other independent fund management companies, national and regional broker/dealers, commercial banks, insurance companies and other institutions. Many of these competitors have substantially greater resources and brand recognition than Federated. Competition is based on various factors, including business reputation, investment performance, quality of service, the strength and continuity of management and selling relationships, marketing and distribution services offered, the range of products offered and fees charged. See Business Competition above.

Many of Federated's products are designed for use by institutions such as banks, insurance companies and other corporations. A large portion of Federated's Managed Assets, particularly money market and fixed-income Managed Assets, are held by institutional investors. Because most institutional investment vehicles are sold without sales commissions at either the time of purchase or the time of redemption, institutional investors may be more inclined to transfer their assets among various institutional funds than investors in retail mutual funds. Of Federated's 148 managed funds, 95 are sold without a sales commission.

A significant portion of Federated's revenue is derived from providing mutual funds to the wealth management and trust market, comprising approximately 1,600 banks and other financial institutions. Future profitability of Federated will be affected by its ability to retain its share of this market, and could also be adversely affected by the general consolidation occurring in the banking industry, as well as regulatory changes. In addition, bank consolidation trends could not only cause changes in Federated's customer mix, but could also affect the scope of services provided and fees received by Federated, depending upon the degree to which banks internalize administrative functions attendant to proprietary mutual funds.

Potential Adverse Effects of Changes in our Distribution Channels. Federated acts as a wholesaler of investment products to financial intermediaries including banks, broker/dealers, registered investment advisers and other financial planners. Federated also sells investment products directly to corporations and institutions. Approximately 26% of Federated's total revenue for 2006 was attributable to two financial intermediaries. If one or more of the major financial intermediaries that distribute Federated's products were to cease operations or limit or otherwise end the distribution of Federated's investment products, it could have a significant adverse effect on Federated's future revenues and, to a lesser extent, net income. There can be no assurance that Federated will continue to have access to the financial intermediaries that currently distribute Federated products. In addition, Federated has experienced increases in the cost of distribution as a percentage of total revenue over the years and such costs could continue to rise. Higher distribution costs reduce Federated's operating and net income.

Potential Adverse Effects of a Decline in Securities Markets. Changes in economic or market conditions may adversely affect the profitability and performance of and demand for Federated's investment products and services. The ability of Federated to compete and grow is dependent, in part, on the relative attractiveness of the types of investment products Federated offers and its investment performance and strategies under prevailing market conditions. A significant portion of Federated's revenue is derived from investment advisory fees, which are based on the value of Managed Assets and vary with the type of asset being managed, with higher fees generally earned on equity products than on fixed-income and money market products. Consequently, significant fluctuations in the market value of securities held by, or the level of redemptions from, the funds or other products advised by Federated may materially affect the amount of Managed Assets and thus Federated's revenue, profitability and ability to grow. Substantially all of Federated's Managed Assets are in investment products that permit investors to redeem their investment at any time.

Potential Adverse Effects on Money Market and Other Fixed-Income Assets Resulting From Changes in Interest Rates. Approximately 47% and 13% of Federated's revenue in 2006 was from managed assets in money market and fixed-income products, respectively. These assets are largely from institutional investors. After reaching record lows, short-term interest rates began to rise in 2004 and may continue to increase. In a rising-rate environment, certain institutional investors using money market products and other short-term duration fixed-income products for cash management purposes may shift these investments to direct investments in comparable instruments in order to realize higher yields than those available in money market and other fund products holding lower-yielding instruments. These redemptions reduce Managed Assets, thereby reducing Federated's revenue. In addition, rising interest rates will tend to reduce the market value of bonds held in various investment portfolios and other products. Thus, increases in interest rates could have an adverse effect on Federated's revenue from money market portfolios and from other fixed-income products. Federated has been actively diversifying its products to expand its Managed Assets in equity products, which may be less sensitive to interest rate increases. There can be no assurance that Federated will be successful in these diversification efforts.

Adverse Effects of Poor Investment Performance. Success in the investment management business is largely dependent on investment performance relative to market conditions and the performance of competing products. Good performance generally assists retention and growth of assets, resulting in additional revenues. Conversely, poor performance tends to result in decreased sales and increased redemptions with corresponding decreases in revenues to Federated. Poor performance could, therefore, have a material adverse effect on Federated's business, results of operations or business prospects. In terms of revenue concentration by product, approximately 17% of Federated's total revenue for 2006 was derived from services provided to one sponsored fund (the Federated Kaufmann Fund). Sustained poor performance in this fund could have a material adverse effect on Federated's results of operations.

Potential Adverse Effects of Changes in Laws and Regulations on Federated's Investment Management Business. Federated and its investment management business are subject to extensive regulation in the United States and abroad. Federated and the Federated Funds are subject to Federal securities laws, principally the Investment Company Act and the Advisers Act, state laws regarding securities fraud and regulations promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC"), the National Association of Securities Dealers (the "NASD") and the New York Stock Exchange (the "NYSE"). Federated is also affected by the regulations governing banks and other financial institutions and, to the extent operations take place outside the United States, by foreign regulations. During the past five years, the Federal securities laws have been augmented substantially by, among other measures, the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, the Patriot Act of 2001 and the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999. Currently, several bills are pending in Congress that would amend the Investment Company Act to impose additional requirements and restrictions on Federated and the Federated Funds. In addition, during the past few years the SEC, NASD and the NYSE have adopted regulations that will increase Federated's operating expenses and affect the conduct of its business. The SEC has proposed other significant regulations or amendments to regulations that, if adopted, will affect Federated and the Federated Funds, and Federated anticipates that other reforms and regulatory actions affecting the mutual fund industry are likely to occur. Changes in laws, regulations or governmental policies, and the costs associated with compliance, could materially and adversely affect the business and operations of Federated.

No Assurance of Successful Future Acquisitions. Federated's business strategy contemplates the acquisition of other investment management companies as well as investment assets. There can be no assurance that Federated will find suitable acquisition candidates at acceptable prices, have sufficient capital resources to realize its acquisition strategy, be successful in entering into definitive agreements for desired acquisitions, or successfully integrate acquired companies into Federated, or that any such acquisitions, if consummated, will prove to be advantageous to Federated.

Retaining and Recruiting Key Personnel. The Company's ability to locate and retain quality personnel has contributed significantly to its growth and success and is important to attracting and retaining customers. The market for qualified executives, investment managers, analysts, sales representatives and other key personnel is extremely competitive. There can be no assurance that the Company will be successful in its efforts to recruit and retain the required personnel. The Company has encouraged the continued retention of its executives and other key personnel through measures such as providing competitive compensation arrangements and in certain cases employment agreements. The loss of any such personnel could have an adverse effect on the Company. Moreover, since certain of our products contribute significantly to our revenues and earnings, the loss of even a small number of key personnel associated with these products could have a disproportionate impact on our business.

Various executives, investment, sales and other key personnel now own restricted stock and hold stock options subject to vesting periods of up to ten years from the date acquired or awarded and to provisions that require resale or forfeiture to the Company in certain circumstances upon termination of employment. In addition, certain of these employees are employed under contracts which require periodic review of compensation and contain restrictive covenants with regard to divulging confidential information and engaging in competitive enterprises.

During 2006, the two senior portfolio managers of the Federated Kaufmann Fund, which generated 17% of Federated's revenue in 2006, were subject to non-competition agreements which were entered into in 2000 and continue into April 2007. Since the employment agreements expired in 2005, Federated reached agreements with these portfolio managers on new terms of employment including performance-based incentive compensation. These portfolio managers are no longer parties to formal employment contracts with Federated, which is generally consistent with Federated's policy for portfolio managers.

Additional information can be found in Items 7 and 8 of Part II of this Form 10-K.

Systems and Technology Risks. Federated utilizes software and related technologies throughout its businesses including both proprietary systems and those provided by outside vendors. Unanticipated issues could occur and it is not possible to predict with certainty all of the adverse effects that could result from a failure of a third party to address computer system problems. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that potential system interruptions or the cost necessary to rectify the problems would not have a material adverse effect on Federated's business, financial condition, results of operations or business prospects.

Adverse Effects of Rising Costs of Risk Management. Since 2001, expenses related to risk management have increased and management expects these costs to be significant going forward. Insurance coverage for significant risks may not be available or may only be available at prohibitive costs. Renewals of insurance policies may expose the company to additional cost through the assumption of higher deductibles, and co-insurance liability and/or lower coverage levels. Higher insurance costs, incurred deductibles and lower coverage levels may reduce Federated's operating and net income.

Potential Adverse Effects Related to Federated's Settlement of Past Mutual Fund Trading Issues and Related Legal Proceedings. In 2005, Federated entered into settlement agreements with the SEC and New York State Attorney General (NYAG) to resolve the past mutual fund trading issues. Since October 2003, Federated has been named as a defendant in twenty-three cases filed in various federal district courts and state courts involving allegations relating to market timing, late trading and excessive fees. All of these lawsuits seek unquantified damages, attorneys' fees and expenses. Federated is defending this litigation. The potential impact of these recent lawsuits and future potential similar suits is uncertain. It is possible that an unfavorable determination will cause a material adverse impact to Federated's reputation, financial position, results of operations and/or liquidity.

Any material losses in client or shareholder confidence in Federated or in the mutual fund industry as a result of pending litigation, previously settled governmental inquiries or other matters could increase redemptions from and reduce sales of Federated Funds and other investment management services, resulting in a decrease in future revenues. Responding to future requests from regulatory authorities, defending pending litigation and addressing the undertakings required by the settlement agreements will increase Federated's operating expenses and could have other material adverse effects on Federated's business.

Adverse Effects of Termination or Failure to Renew Fund Agreements. A substantial majority of Federated's revenues are derived from investment management agreements with the funds that, as required by law, are terminable upon 60 days notice. In addition, each such investment management agreement must be approved and renewed annually by each fund's board of directors or trustees, including disinterested members of the board, or its shareholders, as required by law. Generally, Federated's administrative servicing agreements with bank proprietary fund customers have an initial term of three years with a provision for automatic renewal unless notice is otherwise given and provide for termination for cause. Failure to renew, changes resulting in lower fees, or termination of a significant number of these agreements could have a material adverse impact on Federated. In addition, as required by the Investment Company Act, each investment advisory agreement with a mutual fund automatically terminates upon its assignment, although new investment advisory agreements may be approved by the mutual fund's directors or trustees and shareholders. A sale of a sufficient number of shares of Federated's voting securities to transfer control of Federated could be deemed an assignment in certain circumstances. An assignment, actual or constructive, will trigger these termination provisions and may adversely affect Federated's ability to realize the value of these assets.

Under the terms of the settlement agreement with the SEC and NYAG, a Federated investment advisory subsidiary may not serve as investment advisor to any registered investment company unless: (i) at least 75% of the fund's directors are independent of Federated; (ii) the chairman of each such fund is independent of Federated; (iii) no action may be taken by the fund's board of directors or trustees or any committee thereof unless approved by a majority of the independent board members of the fund or committee, respectively; and (iv) the fund appoints a senior officer who reports to the independent directors or trustees and is responsible for monitoring compliance by the fund with applicable laws and fiduciary duties and for managing the process by which management fees charged to a fund are approved.

Federated's facilities are concentrated in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania where it leases space sufficient to meet its operating needs. Federated's headquarters are located in the Federated Investors Tower, where Federated occupies approximately 281,000 square feet. Federated leases approximately 100,000 square feet at the Pittsburgh Office and Research Park and an aggregate of 25,000 square feet at other locations in Pittsburgh. Federated maintains office space in Frankfurt, Germany for certain international initiatives; in New York, New York, where Federated Global Investment Management Corp. conducts its business; in Sicklerville, New Jersey, where Federated Investors Trust Company is located and in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where the MDT group is located. Additional offices in Wilmington, Delaware are subleased by Federated.

ITEM 3 LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Since October 2003, Federated Investors, Inc. and related entities have been named as defendants in twenty-three cases filed in various federal district courts and state courts involving allegations relating to market timing, late trading and excessive fees. All of the pending cases involving allegations related to market timing and late trading have been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the District of Maryland and consolidated for pre-trial proceedings. One market timing/late trading case was voluntarily dismissed by the plaintiff without prejudice.

The seven excessive fee cases were originally filed in five different federal courts and one state court. All six of the federal cases are now pending in the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania. The state court case was voluntarily dismissed by the plaintiff without prejudice.

All of these lawsuits seek unquantified damages, attorneys' fees and expenses. Federated intends to defend this litigation. The potential impact of these recent lawsuits and future potential similar suits is uncertain. It is possible that an unfavorable determination will cause a material adverse impact on Federated's financial position, results of operations and/or liquidity in the period in which the effect becomes reasonably estimable.

In addition, Federated has other claims asserted and threatened against it in the ordinary course of business. These other claims are subject to inherent uncertainties. It is possible that an unfavorable determination will cause a material adverse impact on Federated's financial position, results of operations and/or liquidity in the period in which the effect becomes reasonably estimable.

For additional information, see the information contained in Federated's 2006 Annual Report to Shareholders under the caption "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations - Contractual Obligations and Contingent Liabilities" incorporated by reference in Part II, Item 7 of this report, and under the caption "Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements - Note (22) Commitments and Contingencies - (c) Past Mutual Fund Trading Issues and Related Legal Proceedings and (d) Other Legal Proceedings" incorporated by reference in Part II, Item 8 of this Form 10-K.

The following performance graph compares the total shareholder return of an investment in Federated's Class B Common Stock to that of the Standard and Poor's 500® Index (S&P 500 Index), and to a Peer Group Index of publicly traded asset management firms for the five-year period ending on December 31, 2006. The graph assumes that the value of the investment in Federated's Class B Common Stock and each index was $100 on December 31, 2001. Total return includes reinvestment of all dividends.
