Item 8.01 Other Events

- (a) The following is a supplement to the risk factors disclosed in our previous filings:

Our growth plans are dependent on the availability of capital and funding. Our historical ability to raise capital through the sale of common stock and debt securities may become limited by market conditions beyond our control, as has been evidenced with the economic downturn and issues affecting the financial services industry. Due to changes in regulation, trust preferred securities are no longer viable as a source of long-term debt capital, and treatment of trust preferred as capital may be changed by regulation prior to the maturity of the trust preferred. Change in capital treatment of trust preferred may require the Company to issue securities at times and with maturity, conditions, and rates that are disadvantageous. Pricing of capital, in terms of interest or dividend requirements or dilutive impact on earnings available to shareholders, has increased dramatically, and an increase in costs of capital and availability of funding can have a direct impact on operating performance and the ability to achieve growth objectives. Costs of funding could also increase dramatically and affect our growth objectives, as well as our financial performance. Additionally, the FDIC's guarantee on non-interest bearing deposits was not extended past December 31, 2012; as a result, we could be adversely affected in our ability to attract and maintain non-interest bearing deposits as a source of cost-effective funding. Adverse changes in operating performance or financial condition or changes in statutory or regulatory requirements could make raising additional capital difficult or extremely expensive. Regulators may change capital requirements including previous interpretations of practices related to risk weights that could require an increase to the allocation of capital to assets held by the Bank, and they could require banks to make retroactive adjustment to financial statements to reflect such changes. Changes in risk weights applicable to assets held by the Bank could cause our Bank to report historical deficiencies relative to well-capitalized or minimum capital standards and cause us to raise additional capital or reduce asset balances to maintain minimum and well-capitalized levels of regulatory capital. One such change could relate to the assets generated by our mortgage warehouse business. Balances shown as loans held for sale are comprised of ownership interests in mortgage loans to which we have historically assigned a risk weight to mortgage loans of 50% (or 20% for loans guaranteed by the FHA or VA). The OCC may determine that assets which do not qualify as participating interests under ASC 860, should be assigned to the 100% risk weight category associated with loans to mortgage companies that are secured by a pledge of mortgage loans as collateral. There can be no assurances that the OCC would not require a change in the applicable risk weight on these assets, either retroactively or prospectively. The final outcome of the review by the OCC of our approach to the application of risk weights or any change that may be made in the structure of our program to effect a return to historical risk weights applied to the ownership interests in mortgage assets is uncertain.

During the first quarter of 2013, we downstreamed an additional $125 million to the Bank and applied a 100% risk weight to the loans held for sale portfolio. We believe we have at all times applied the correct risk weights to the ownership interests in mortgage loans owned by us and are prepared to defend that position. Based on the facts and circumstances related to the structure of our program, we believe it supports a 50% (or 20% for FHA/VA) risk weighting. We will determine if our business practices could be changed to maintain the risk weights historically applied and if those changes would be consistent with operating and financial risks acceptable to the Bank. Pending the final determination of the appropriate risk weighting of the Company's ownership in mortgage loans, in the capital ratios to be included in regulatory filings and the Form 10-Q for the first quarter of 2013, we will utilize 100% risk weighting consistent with the supplemental call reports instructions issued in early April. With the 100% risk weighting for March 31, 2013 the Bank remains well capitalized and we have $157 million in the parent company to support the Bank's future capital needs. As is typical in the mortgage business, month-end and quarter-end balances are generally much higher than average balances. The difference between the quarter-end balance and the average balance for the first quarter required approximately $22 million in additional capital using the 100% risk weight applied.
