TO: All Medtronic employees

DATE: June 27, 2014
Dear Colleagues,

On June 15, 2014, Medtronic and Covidien publicly announced Medtronic's intent to acquire Covidien, a global healthcare technology and medical supplies provider. Many of you have questions about the Covidien acquisition and want to understand the tax implications that you have read or heard about.

What You Need to Know

In cases where capital gains tax applies on the deemed sale of MDT shares resulting from the acquisition, it applies to everyone. This includes all Medtronic shareholders, employees, Medtronic executives and the Board of Directors.

Taxable events will not be triggered until the transaction closes, which is estimated to be fourth calendar quarter of 2014 or in early 2015.

Capital gains tax is based on the Medtronic plc stock price at the time the transaction closes to the extent that price exceeds your tax basis in your shares. Generally, your tax basis is what you paid for the shares, plus any ordinary income that you recognized for tax purposes when you acquired the shares. Your taxes will also vary based on the length of time that you have held the shares (i.e., one year or less, or more than one year).

Medtronic will provide employees with resources to help understand and prepare for any taxable events, including tax advice services at no cost to employees.

In the coming weeks, you will receive additional information about the potential impact of the transaction in the country where you pay taxes, as well as how to access tax advice services at no cost to you.

Everyone's tax situation is different and we encourage you to discuss your situation with your own tax and financial advisors.

Questions will remain in many areas as the integration team works through the details of the acquisition. As decisions are made, our goal is to keep you informed as we move toward closing this transaction in the fourth calendar quarter of 2014 or in early 2015.

Fact Sheet U.S. (including Puerto Rico)

Tax Implications of the Proposed Acquisition of Covidien

The information below applies to all officers and employees of Medtronic who own Medtronic shares.

The following plans will not be impacted as a result of this transaction:

Unvested Restricted Stock Units (performance based and time based awards)

Unexercised Stock Options (vested and unvested)

U.S. Medtronic, Inc. Savings and Investment Plan (Medtronic's 401(k) Plan)

This includes the Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP)

Puerto Rico Employees Savings and Investment Plan

U.S. Capital Accumulation Plan (CAP)

U.S. Non-Qualified Retirement Plan Supplement (NRPS)

For the following plans, the impact is noted below:

Capital gains tax is based on the Medtronic plc stock price at the time the acquisition closes to the extent that price exceeds your tax basis in your shares. Generally, your tax basis is what you paid for the shares, plus any ordinary income that you recognized for tax purposes when you acquired the shares. Your taxes will also vary based on the length of time that you have held the shares (i.e., one year or less, or more than one year).

Vested and exercised stock awards

If you own Medtronic shares as a result of previously vested Restricted Stock Units (includes performance based and time based awards) or Restricted Stock or the exercise of Stock Options, the shares are subject to any capital gains tax generated at the time of the closing of the transaction; in most cases your basis in those shares will be the market value of the shares on the day RSUs or Restricted Stock vested and the market price of the shares on the day you exercised any Stock Options.

The capital gains tax liability is incurred in the calendar year in which the transaction closes.

Shares can be sold to cover the tax liability. The sale of shares must be in compliance with Medtronic's insider trading policy.

Global Employee Stock Purchase Plan (ESPP)

If you have participated in ESPP, a high level summary of the potential impact of the proposed acquisition is contained in the table below. More detailed information about potential impact on the ESPP will be available in the coming weeks, including examples and actions to help address the issues that are unique to the ESPP.

Purchase Timing	Impact
Shares purchased within 12 months prior to the acquisition transaction date	The 15% discount will be subject to ordinary income tax and will be added as taxable income to your W-2. Any additional gain or loss on the sale is treated as a short term capital gain or loss. The tax liability will be incurred for the calendar year in which the transaction closes. The restriction on selling shares purchased within 12 months will be waived. Taxes will not be withheld from your payment and Social Security and Medicare taxes will not apply.
Shares purchased more than 12 months, but less than 24 months prior to the acquisition transaction date	The 15% discount will be subject to ordinary income tax and will be added as taxable income to your W- 2. Any additional gain or loss on the sale is treated as a long term capital gain or loss.

The tax liability will be incurred for the calendar year in which the transaction closes.

Taxes will not be withheld from your paycheck and Social Security and Medicare taxes will not apply.

Shares purchased more than 24 months prior to the acquisition transaction date

The 15% discount (limited to the gain realized on the sale) will be subject to ordinary income tax and will NOT be added as taxable income to your W- 2.

Any additional gain or loss on the sale is treated as a long term capital gain or loss. The tax liability will be incurred for the calendar year in which the transaction closes.

Taxes will not be withheld from your paycheck and Social Security and Medicare taxes will not apply.

Other Tax Implications:

Special Excise Tax: In addition to the capital gains tax that applies to all shareholders, Section 16b Officers of Medtronic may be subject to an additional excise tax that is applied to unvested restricted stock units and unexercised stock options (unvested and vested). Again, this excise tax is in addition to the capital gains tax and it is not applicable to any other employees or retirees of the company. It is a tax applicable only to the Section 16b Officers as well as members of the Board of Directors. Because this excise tax is separate and incremental to the capital gains tax that applies for all shareholders, including Officers of the company, Medtronic will assist Section 16b Officers using a tax gross-up. This will result in those shareholders being in the same tax position as all other shareholders.

It is important to note that these goals and expectations are not predictions of actual performance. Actual results may differ materially from current expectations depending upon a number of factors affecting New Medtronic's business, Medtronic's business, Covidien's business and risks associated with the proposed transactions. These factors include, among others, the inherent uncertainty associated with financial projections; restructuring in connection with, and successful close of, the Covidien acquisition; subsequent integration of the Covidien acquisition and the ability to recognize the anticipated synergies and benefits of the Covidien acquisition; the risk that the required regulatory approvals for the proposed transactions are not obtained, are delayed or are subject to conditions that are not anticipated; the anticipated size of the markets and continued demand for Medtronic's and Covidien's products; the impact of competitive products and pricing; access to available financing (including financing for the acquisition or refinancing of Medtronic or Covidien debt) on a timely basis and on reasonable terms; the risks of fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates; the risks and uncertainties normally incident to the medical device industry, including competition in the medical device industry; product liability claims; the difficulty of predicting the timing or outcome of pending or future litigation or government investigations; variability of trade buying patterns; the timing and success of product launches; the difficulty of predicting the timing or outcome of product development efforts and regulatory agency approvals or actions, if any; potential for adverse pricing movement; costs and efforts to defend or enforce intellectual property rights; difficulties or delays in manufacturing; reduction or interruption in supply; product quality problems; the availability and pricing of third party sourced products and materials; risks associated with self-insurance and commercial insurance; successful compliance with governmental regulations applicable to New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and Covidien's facilities, products and/or businesses; changes in the laws and regulations, affecting among other things, pricing and reimbursement of pharmaceutical products; health care policy changes; risks associated with international operations; changes in tax laws or interpretations that could increase New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and/or Covidien's consolidated tax liabilities, including, if the transaction is consummated, changes in tax laws that would result in New Medtronic being treated as a domestic corporation for United States federal tax purposes; the loss of key senior management or scientific staff; and such other risks and uncertainties detailed in Medtronic's periodic public filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including but not limited to Medtronic's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended April 25, 2014, in Covidien's periodic public filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including but not limited to Covidien's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended September 27, 2013, and from time to time in Medtronic's and Covidien's other investor communications.
