TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS

WE ARE PLEASED TO REPORT AN EXCELLENT FISCAL YEAR 2016 THE CULMINATION OF THREE YEARS OF REINVENTION. IN FACT, AS WE ENTER OUR 35TH YEAR, WE FEEL LIKE A YOUNG COMPANY.

Three key foundational strengths drove our FY 2016 performance, as well as our transformation these past years: innovation, execution, and cost management. As a result, we ended the year with our strongest retail sales growth in five years. Key highlights include* :

Sales of $2.02 billion grew 1 percent compared to FY 2015. Retail sales (the entire go-forward business) grew 9 percent in constant currency.

GAAP operating income was $129 million, with earnings per share at $0.77. Non-GAAP operating income was a better-than-expected $179 million, with earnings per share at $0.98.

We returned $156 million to you, our shareholders, in the form of dividends and share repurchases and delivered our twenty-second consecutive year of positive cash flow. We still ended the year with more than $0.5 billion in cash.

A deeper dive into these numbers, and Logitech's activities throughout the year, gives greater detail on what has been a terrific year.

ANOTHER YEAR OF PROFITABLE GROWTH

Last year, we outlined the importance of Logitech's Retail Strategic business – essentially our entire business (more than 90 percent) excluding Lifesize, which we separated, and OEM, which we exited. This new Logitech that remains grew 9 percent in constant currency sales in FY 2016, more than our original outlook and more than twice the growth of FY 2015.

We posted gains in constant currency sales year-over-year in Gaming (up 23 percent), Mobile Speakers (up 37 percent) and Video Collaboration (up 51 percent). We also increased sales in PC Peripherals: our Mice and Keyboard categories grew 6 percent combined and we achieved our best sales in Keyboards & Combos in eight years.

We grew across each of our regions. We grew in our Growth category and in our Profit Maximization category. In fact, more than 80 percent of our retail sales were in growing categories. And we increased our market share across almost all our categories. What's more, our growth was profitable: non-GAAP operating income was a better-than-expected $179 million.

INNOVATION ACROSS A DIVERSE PORTFOLIO

It seems unimaginable that we could have our strongest year of growth and our third consecutive year of growth in Fiscal Year 2016 despite continuing steep declines in the PC and iPad markets. Just look at the key facts. First, we grew strongly outside our PC and tablet peripheral product categories. And second, we even grew our mouse and keyboard categories modestly through good innovation. This was possible because while the sales of PCs are declining, the usage of PCs is not. Strong innovation in a mouse or keyboard can reinvent an old PC.

The new Logitech is more about fundamental innovation than just portfolio expansion, although it is that too. The innovation and execution we have driven in our product portfolio have helped drive this growth. For several years, we have been dedicated to bringing together high-quality engineering, Design thinking and consumer insights to craft great product experiences that appeal to millions of consumers. Fiscal Year 2016 was no exception.

Let's recall how this approach affects our oldest category. The new Logitech MX Anywhere 2 wireless mouse – the portable sibling of our best-selling MX Master mouse – responds to the consumer need for a beautifully designed, portable mouse that can be used across multiple computers. The Logitech K380 Multi-Device keyboard also taps into a trend for switching between devices – this time between tablets, PCs and smartphones. Both of these products illustrate how a blend of art and science that taps into a genuine consumer need can contribute to growth, even in a declining market.

Logi BASE and Logi CREATE are additional examples of this approach. Each accessorizes the iPad Pro and is the result of close collaboration with Apple before the iPad Pro was even launched.

* Note that these results and comparisons with the prior year focus on results from continuing operations. They do not include the performance of Lifesize because Logitech separated its Lifesize division from the Company in December 2015.

ARE EXCITING
TIMES.

We are building quite a success story in other categories too. We had hits in FY 2016 from the new UE BOOM 2 wireless speaker, the Logitech G900 Chaos Spectrum wireless gaming mouse and our Video Collaboration portfolio of ConferenceCam products. These bring 360-degree music to your social activities, professional-grade wireless technology to gamers and high-definition video to meeting rooms around the world.

We also introduced our Logi Circle wireless security camera, designed to protect and connect you while you're away from home. And a few weeks ago we unveiled Logi ZeroTouch – a simple app that turns your car into a connected car, allowing you to interact safely with your smartphone without taking your eyes off the road.

The list of home-grown product successes goes on and we've also expanded our presence in markets through acquisition. Our acquisition of Jaybird, a leader in wireless audio wearables for sports and active lifestyles, saw us add their award-winning X2 wireless buds to our portfolio. And just weeks later, we launched new Jaybird Freedom wireless buds, to immediate acclaim by media and consumers.

These and other products comprise our diverse and balanced portfolio of product categories and brands. They have contributed to a record-breaking nine Red Dot design awards, eight iF awards and five GOOD DESIGN awards in Calendar Year 2016 alone. Such recognition underscores the value in our pursuit of becoming a Design-centric company.

LOOKING FORWARD

Fiscal Year 2016 demonstrates the transformation we have undergone at Logitech. Over these past three years, we have returned to profitable growth, from a 7 percent decline in 2013 to 9 percent growth last year. We have established and expanded on our category leadership and have a diverse portfolio of which we can be proud. An investment in Logitech stock at the start of FY 2014 would have generated a return of nearly 130 percent over the past three fiscal years and we continue to return value to you through dividends and share buybacks.

As we enter the year of our thirty-fifth anniversary, which we'll celebrate on October 2, 2016, we feel young again. Our innovation engine has momentum. And we continue, like a hungry young company, to manage our costs prudently – re-investing a portion of savings back into innovation to drive profitable growth on the top line. Of course, Logitech faces a competitive environment, with the added pressure of economic headwinds, uncertainty following Brexit and the constant state of change and disruption that marks our categories. Yet, where some see challenges, we see numerous growth opportunities. All of our broad market areas – Creativity & Productivity, Gaming, Music, Video Collaboration and Home – offer opportunities for profitable growth.

These are exciting times. We're grateful to our employees for their hard work and dedication in getting us here. We're also extremely grateful to you, our shareholders, for believing in us. We look forward to building our future together, in the next chapter for the new Logitech. We are just getting started. Young again.
