Item 8.01 Other Events.

On July 24, 2014, Genie Energy Ltd. (the “Registrant”) received notice that Israel’s Northern District Planning and Building Committee had earlier voted to approve the application by the Registrant’s Afek Oil and Gas Ltd. subsidiary (“Afek”) to conduct a ten-well oil and gas exploration program. The drilling permit has not yet been issued. Afek was awarded an exclusive petroleum exploration license by Israel’s Ministry of Energy in April 2013 covering 396.5 square kilometers in Northern Israel.

Earlier this month, the Supreme Court of Israel denied a motion filed by groups seeking to prevent the Committee from approving the project. The Supreme Court, however, has allowed petitioners time to amend their motion and issued a temporary order preventing Afek from commencing drilling in the interim.

The Registrant believes that the exploratory drilling program has been carefully designed to protect the quality of life of local residents and preserve natural resources.

Provided that the permit is issued and the remaining legal hurdles are overcome, the exploratory drilling could begin in the third quarter of 2014 and take up to three years to complete.

The Registrant has previously stated that, based on its analysis of the available geo-physical data, it was optimistic that the license area contains a significant amount of oil and gas.
