Fitch maintains Petrobras Investment Grade ratings

Rio de Janeiro, June 29 2009 PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A PETROBRAS announces that Fitch Ratings (Fitch) has maintained the debt rating of Petrobras and of its wholly owned subsidiary PifCo (Petrobras International Finance Co.) at the following levels: BBB in foreign currency, BBB+ in local currency, and AAA on the domestic scale, with a stable perspective.

According to Fitch 's report, the assessment is based on Petrobras ' leading position in the domestic market, on its expertise in offshore and deepwater exploration, and on the fact that the new discoveries in the pre-salt area strengthens Petrobras ' position in the global oil and gas industry. Fitch also acknowledges the positive credit effect of the market-oriented measures implemented over the past several years as well as improvements in corporate governance and increased transparency.

Fitch believes that Petrobras ' credit metrics will be impacted by its greater level of indebtedness, particularly in 2009 and 2010, which will make funding the higher level of investments announced for the 2009-2013 period feasible, but that this will not compromise the Company 's ratings. Additionally, it emphasizes that the investments made in Exploration and Production are likely to lead to a significant increase in production and reserves in the upcoming years, allowing the credit metrics to fall back to their historic levels as of 2011.

The assessment is aligned to Petrobras ' commitment to maintain its capital structure at levels that are compatible with a solid investment grade, considering the execution of its Business Plan will lead to a significant increase in the company 's oil and natural gas production, which is expected to top out at 3.6 million boed in 2013 and 5.7 million boed in 2020.

Fitch is the third international rating agency, after Standard & Poors and Moody 's, to announce its updated Report on the Company 's rating. All of them have maintained the investment grade.
