Article 5. General duties of the Board of Directors.

. The Board of Directors is, as set forth in the Act and the Articles of Association, the highest Body of administration and representation of the Company, it thus being empowered to perform, within the scope covered by the corporate object defined in the Articles of Association, any acts or legal transactions of administration and disposal, by any juridical title, except for this reserved by the Act or the Articles of Association to the exclusive competence of the General Meeting of Shareholders.

. Notwithstanding the aforementioned, the Board of Directors is basically configured as a supervisory and controlling body, and the ordinary management of the Company business is entrusted to the executive bodies and management team.

3.

The powers that, by law or statute, are reserved for exclusive hearing by the Board, or others required for responsible exercise of its basic duties of supervision and control, may not be delegated.

Within the scope of duties of supervision and control, the Board of Directors shall set the Company's management strategies and guidelines, shall establish the basis of the corporate organisation in order to guarantee the greatest efficiency of same, shall implement and safeguard establishment of adequate information procedures of the Company for the shareholders and markets in general, shall adopt the relevant decisions on corporate and financial operations of special transcendence to the company, and shall approve the basis of its own organisation and operation for the best fulfilment of these duties.

In relation to the Telefonica, S.A Group companies, its Board of Directors, within the legal limits, shall set the basis for adequate, efficient co-ordination between the Company and the companies forming that Group, respecting in all cases the autonomy of decision of its governing and management bodies, according to the inherent corporate interest of the Company and of each of those companies.

To the ends mentioned and within the limits stated, the Board of Directors of Telefonica, S.A. shall implement the necessary instruments to establish adequate co-ordination relations based on mutual interest and, thus, in keeping with by their respective corporate interests.

Article 8. Quantitative composition.

. The Board of Directors shall be formed by the number of Directors determined by the General Meeting of Shareholders, within the limits set in the Articles of Association of the Company.

Article 9. Qualitative composition.

. The Board of Directors, exercising the rights of co-option and proposal of appointments to the General Meeting of Shareholders, shall ensure in the composition of the Body that external and non executive Directors form an ample majority over the executive Directors.

To these ends, the executive Directors shall be understood to be those who have executive or management duties in the Company, or in any of the companies in its Group and, in all cases, those who have a labour, mercantile or other kind of relation with the Company, other than their status as Director. 3

. In order to establish a reasonable balance between both types of external Directors and considering the present shareholding structure of the Company, the Board shall ensure that the independent Directors are in majority in relation to the proprietary ones, the present estimate of the ideal number of proprietary Directors being six, due to the quantitative composition of the Board and the present shareholding structure of the Company, in which the portion of floating capital is slightly greater than the sum of stable significant stakes represented by proprietary Directors.
