V-ONE ANSWERS MOST FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS
ON PROPOSED ACQUISITION BY STEELCLOUD

On May 20, 2004, V-ONE Corporation (V-ONE) and SteelCloud, Inc. (SteelCloud)

Edgar Filing: V ONE CORP/ DE - Form 425

announced the signing of a letter of intent for SteelCloud to acquire V-ONE in an all-stock transaction. V-ONE believes that the interests of our investors, employees, customers and partners will be best served through this business combination. This document provides answers to the most frequently asked questions from our shareholders regarding the proposed acquisition.

1. WHY DID V-ONE MANAGEMENT AND THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS DECIDE THE COMPANY SHOULD BE ACQUIRED BY STEELCLOUD?

The combined capabilities of V-ONE and SteelCloud have the potential to significantly expand the reach of V-ONE's technology and products to the world's fastest growing security markets. With synergistic products, an improved balance sheet and a shared vision, V-ONE and SteelCloud, once combined, will be poised to be a leading innovator and marketer of security solutions for the government and corporate enterprise sectors.

The network security environment has become increasingly competitive, particularly over the past two years, as new entrants introduce products that compete with V-ONE in the emerging application layer SSL VPN market. With this heightened competition, V-ONE management realized that although we were able to maintain accounts with long-standing customers, our weakened financial position was inhibiting our ability to win new contracts, expand our product development and protect and defend our intellectual property and technology patents. At the same time, our cash flow was being constrained by continuing delays in funding for projects we had hoped to begin implementing in the first half of this year.

After a careful assessment of our financial position, we decided that in order to position our products to receive the developmental and marketing support they required, we needed to either raise additional capital or become part of a larger organization with a synergistic technology mix and greater financial resources than our own. V-ONE engaged H.C. Wainwright & Co. Inc. as its financial advisor to conduct a comprehensive search for a strategic partner. Our research concluded that SteelCloud was the best available partner to enable V-ONE's technology to reach its optimum potential. SteelCloud has a shared vision for building the security solution of tomorrow, products that could augment the V-ONE technology and complementary needs.

We believed then as we do now that this transaction fulfills our responsibility to our shareholders to maximize the value of their investment.

2. WHY ARE V-ONE COMMON SHAREHOLDERS REQUIRED TO EXCHANGE 8.5 SHARES OF COMMON STOCK FOR ONE SHARE OF STEELCLOUD COMMON STOCK?

The conversion of (approximately) 8.5 shares of V-ONE common stock for one share of SteelCloud common stock reflects the approximate ratio of both companies' stock prices at the signing of the letter of intent. It also allows V-ONE to satisfy certain long-standing covenants with our preferred shareholders. In management's estimation, the alternative of seeking additional financing to secure and further the company's growth would have been dilutive to current shareholder value and would have addressed only V-ONE's fundamental need for cash without addressing market demands for a fully supported, comprehensive security solution.

3. WHY DID V-ONE MANAGEMENT REVERSE SPLIT THE COMPANY'S COMMON STOCK IF IT WAS

Edgar Filing: V ONE CORP/ DE - Form 425

CONTEMPLATING AN ACQUISITION? DID THIS REVERSE STOCK SPLIT HAVE A NEGATIVE EFFECT ON THE CONSIDERATION TO BE RECEIVED BY V-ONE SHAREHOLDERS IN THE STEELCLOUD TRANSACTION?

The Board of Director's decision to combine two shares of V-ONE common stock into one share of common stock was made earlier this year and proxy materials for V-ONE's Annual Meeting of Shareholders, at which our shareholders approved the reverse stock split, were mailed to shareholders before we contemplated a transaction with SteelCloud. The principal reasons for the reverse stock split were the relatively low per share market price of the company's common stock and the need to increase the number of shares of common stock available for issuance to meet various business needs. The reverse stock split did not affect the purchase price to be paid by SteelCloud in the transaction and thus did not affect the value of the consideration to be received by V-ONE shareholders for their shares of company stock. The total consideration offered by SteelCloud to acquire all of V-ONE's issued and outstanding capital stock was based on the inherent value of V-ONE's products, technology and intellectual property and thus, would remain the same both before and after the reverse stock split.

4. WHAT CAN V-ONE SHAREHOLDERS EXPECT IN TERMS OF THE FUTURE VALUATION OF THEIR SHARES OF STEELCLOUD?

We agreed to be acquired by SteelCloud because its network technology and product mix, as well as its financial position, represent the best available technical and marketing support for our application layer SSL VPN products. We will also be in a far stronger position to protect our intellectual property and technology patents, which represent a strategic asset in a high-growth market still in its early stages. The bottom line is that as a part of SteelCloud, we will be positioned to pursue market opportunities that we were unable to pursue alone. While we cannot predict the future valuation of SteelCloud shares, we have confidence that SteelCloud's award-winning technology and products, combined with our patented standards-based application layer SSL VPN capability, will create a leading provider of network security solutions.

5. WILL V-ONE AND STEELCLOUD BE RELEASING ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ABOUT THE ACQUISITION?

Yes. Once the acquisition agreement is finalized, the companies will describe further details of the transaction. Also, the companies expect to hold a conference call to discuss the vision for the new company. Shareholders will be invited to participate and ask questions of management relating to the acquisition.

6. ASSUMING THE ACQUISITION AGREEMENT IS FINALIZED, WHEN WILL THE ACQUISITION ACTUALLY BECOME EFFECTIVE?

After the receipt of all necessary shareholder, third-party and regulatory approvals, which we anticipate is likely to take several months.
