Re: Cardinal Value Equity Partners, LP
Our File No.: 019637-0088

Dear Bruce:

On behalf of our client infoUSA Inc. (the "Company"), we have reviewed Amendment No. I to Schedule 13D, filed jointly by Cardinal Capital Management, LLC and Cardinal Value Equity Partners, LP (collectively, "Cardinal") on February 9, 2006, relating to the common stock of the Company. The Amendment shows that from September 16, 2005, the date of Cardinal's original Schedule 13D, to February 2, 2006, Cardinal's ownership of the Company's common stock increased by a total of 543,320 shares with an incremental cost of at least $5.7 million. This includes more than 60 transactions during the period from December 6, 2005 to February 2, 2006, which are listed in Amendment No. 1, involving a total of 296,670 shares of the Company's common stock with an aggregate price of approximately $3.2 million.

The Company believes these transactions may violate federal securities laws as well as the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement between Cardinal and the Company, dated September 23, 2005, entered into in connection with Cardinal's demand for inspection of corporate records under Section 220 of the Delaware General Corporation Law.

As you know, Section 5 of the Confidentiality Agreement provides as follows:

"5. Trading Restrictions. Cardinal agrees that neither it nor its Representatives shall use any Confidential Information as a basis for trading in securities of the Company or for any other purpose, except for the purposes set forth in paragraph 4 of this Agreement."

Pursuant to Cardinal's Section 220 demand, and subject to the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement, the Company provided certain confidential information to Cardinal on October 3, 2005. This information included, but was not limited to, confidential 5-year financial projections. These projections show projected income statements on a monthly basis through the end of 2005, and on a quarterly and annual basis for the period ending with calendar year 2009, as well as projected cash flow statements and balance sheets through December 31, 2009.

On January 18, 2006, Cardinal executed a Joinder Agreement to the Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure Agreement between Dolphin Limited Partnership

Edgar Filing: INFOUSA INC - Form SC 13D/A

I, L.P. ("Dolphin") and the Company, pursuant to which Cardinal has had or will have access to confidential information provided by the Company to Dolphin. Pursuant to the Joinder Agreement, Cardinal is bound by the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement with Dolphin, including prohibitions on the use of confidential information to trade in the Company's stock. This is in addition to, and not in replacement of, the restrictions agreed to by Cardinal in the Confidentiality Agreement between Cardinal and the Company.

The Company believes the information provided to Cardinal or to which Cardinal has had or may have access includes material non-public information. The Company is both surprised and concerned that Cardinal has engaged in and may continue to engage in open market transactions in the Company's common stock while in possession of material non-public information, a violation of federal securities laws and the Confidentiality Agreement. The Company expects that Cardinal will not engage in any further transactions while in the possession of material non-public information and reminds it of its obligations under both the Confidentiality Agreement and under federal securities laws. The Company has notified the Securities and Exchange Commission of the circumstances relating to Cardinal's recent transactions in the Company's stock.

Sincerely,

ROBINS, KAPLAN, MILLER & CRESI L.L.P.

Re: Cardinal Value Equity Partners, LP v. Gupta et al
Civil Action No. 1959-N

Dear Eric:

I am writing in response to your letter of February 22.

The letter contains baseless and unfounded allegations which apparently have been interposed to gain advantage in Cardinal Value Equity Partners, LP's ("Cardinal") pending litigation against certain directors of the Company. Although your client has obviously been aware of the trading since Cardinal's schedule 13D filing on February 2, 2006, neither you nor your client has ever raised any of the concerns set forth in your letter. Those concerns have come forward only after your client was informed that Cardinal intended to commence a derivative action. The timing of your letter obviously is not coincidental.

Substantively, any allegations in your letter of wrongdoings by Cardinal are entirely meritless. We believe you know they are meritless, as your allegations are that the Company believes that Cardinal "may have" had access to material non-public information or that Cardinal's trading "may" have been contrary to the terms of the confidentiality agreement or federal securities laws.

With one exception, your letter is devoid of any specificity with respect to what information you believe Cardinal possessed which could possibly have imposed on it an obligation not to trade in the Company's stock. The Confidentiality Agreements clearly do not prohibit trading for any specific period of time. They only state that the information may not be used as a "basis for trading". In fact, the information Cardinal received was not used as a basis for any of its trades.

The one specific which you provide, confidential five year financial projections, were not used as a basis for trading by Cardinal. The projections that Cardinal received were superceded by the Company's release of its third quarter financial statements at which time it publicly provided updated guidance as to its future financial performance. Cardinal could not have possibly concluded and did not believe on the advice of counsel that the projections contained material and non-public information at the time that it traded.

To the extent there was a variation between the projections and the Company's announced results and guidance, (1) Cardinal justifiably understood the projections it received were stale. The contrary position in your letter would require the conclusion that the Company issued financial reports and earnings guidance, which it knew at the time were materially at variance with its own internal projections. In short, it would mandate the conclusion that the Company engaged in a knowing violation of the federal securities laws. Further, officers and directors of the Company were trading in the Company's securities at the same time period as Cardinal. Has the Company made any complaint to the Securities Exchange Commission ("SEC") about those trades?

Alternatively, if the Company is taking the position that the mere possession of projections precludes trading in the Company's securities, then the Company is obligated to explain how its own executives have traded the Company's securities at any time, including V. Gupta in the spring of 2005. Is it the Company's intent also to file a complaint with the SEC against V. Gupta for trading on insider information?

Cardinal considers that it is likely that the Company and V. Gupta have caused your letter to be written and filed with the SEC for retaliatory reasons, to wrongfully damage Cardinal's reputation and to cause injury to Cardinal. If the Company has any basis to claim that Cardinal "has" violated either the terms of the confidentiality agreements in its 220 action or Dolphin's 220 action, the federal securities laws or any other law, you should bring it to my attention immediately along with a specific identification of what material information the Company contends was in Cardinal's possession, an analysis of its materiality and its variance from the Company's publicly announced results of operations and publicly issued earnings guidance immediately prior to Cardinal's trades. Should the Company not be able to provide this information promptly, an immediate withdrawal of the Company's allegations and an apology, with notice to the SEC, is required. Should this not be resolved promptly to Cardinal's satisfaction, Cardinal intends to pursue all its rights against all who are legally responsible for what it believes are actions not made in good faith, interposed for improper purposes and designed to injure and damage Cardinal's business and reputation.

Please advise me how your letter to the SEC was addressed so that I can assure that a copy of this letter is also delivered to the same persons. Further, if your response will be delayed beyond the close of business February 24, 2006, please advise me as to the reasons.

I look forward to your reply.

Sincerely,

/s/ R. Bruce McNew

RBM/ts

- (1) Cardinal does not intend to engage in a discussion about whether there was any variation between these stale projections and the actual results and actual earnings guidance.
